Monied Republicans sneak peek at Demo

By NOEL SWANN

Don't tell a soul, but three heavy contributors to Republican campaigns secretly took a certain Southern Democrat to lunch Friday.

Hosting the "getting to know you" bash attended by more than 50 prominent GOP leaders, some name Democrats and businessmen were Holmes Tuttle, Justin Dart, and Jack Wrather, considered to be among the kingpins in Gov. Reagan's kitchen cabinet.

And the man being honored at the swank Los Angeles Club affair? U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas—wealthy businessman, friend of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson and John Connally and a man who reportedly spent between $25,000 and $50,000 at the recent Kansas City Democratic miniconvention, wooing support for a shot at the White House race.

Although the promoters stressed it was not a fund-raiser, the mere fact they held the lunch for Bentsen posed a number of interesting questions about the motives.

Many political observers would read the meeting as an apparent slap in the face to Reagan, who ostensibly has been waiting in the wings as a major presidential hopeful.

IT ALSO tended to suggest that the prominent Republicans placed little faith in the concept that President Ford would emerge as a strong candidate in 1976.

Another interpretation is that the GOP leaders seem to have tacitly assumed that the Watergate atmosphere would not have dissipated by 1976, and the time had come to look down the line for a Democrat palatable to them.

The Bentsen affair also tended to indicate that the GOP men found him a more appealing business alternative

Senate votes landmark international trade bill

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday night approved a sweeping international trade bill with a historic provision aimed to ensure emigration of minorities from Communist countries.

By a vote of 77 to 4, the Senate sent the bill to conference with the House, which passed a similar measure a year ago.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., second-ranking Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee, said later: "I am extremely pleased with the early Senate action and see no obstacles to final enactment."

Ullman, who is expected to succeed Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., as chairman of Ways and Means, said he plans "to go to conference as soon as possible so that we can work out the differences" between the Senate and House versions.

He added: "This bill is landmark legislation and is especially significant because of the growing economic difficulties in the free world."

Voting against the bill on final passage were Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., Vance Hartke, D-Ind., James McClure, R-Idaho, and Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

Earlier in the day, on an 88-0 vote, senators added to the bill a compromise amendment prohibiting U.S. trade concessions or credits for any Communist nation that does not lower emigration barriers.

For the past year, most attention has been focused on the emigration provision, but the bill itself grants the President broad authority to seek agreements with other nations leading to a freer system of world trade.

The measure aims to ensure that U.S. farmers and manufacturers are given a fair break in access to world markets.

The trade bill was assigned top-priority status by former President Richard M. Nixon and by President Ford.

The nation's trading partners have been delaying international trade negotiations for a year because the U.S. had no authority to make agreements.

The emigration compromise, as finally approved, allows waiver of the prohibition for the next 18 months while the Communist countries show their good intentions on allowing free emigration.

In return, U.S. trade concessions would be provided during that period, but could be revoked by Congress later if emigration barriers were reimposed.

The emigration arrangement is aimed specifically at aiding Russian Jews but applies equally to any minority or ethnic group in any Communist nation.

The agreement was hailed as a milestone in international relations because it was worked out during negotiations involving key members of Congress, President Ford, Secretary of State Henry

Production in 'steepest' fall

By RICHARD HUGHES
UPI Business Writer

Industrial production went into its steepest decline in four years last month, the Federal Reserve Board said Friday. The sharp reduction in output by U.S. industry indicates the economy is in the grip of a severe recession.

The Federal Reserve said production dropped 2.3 per cent from October and 4.3 per cent from November, 1973. It was the third consecutive month of decline in the output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

The FED, an independent government agency, said the November decline was the biggest since output dropped 2.4 per cent in October, 1970, when a strike had shut down General Motors.

THE agency said the slump in production in November was widespread, affecting not only automobile assemblies but also other durable and nondurable consumer goods.

The Federal Reserve also announced the nation's money supply rose $2.5 billion last week, indicating the Fed itself has poured more money into the banking system in an easing of monetary restraints to stimulate business.

Elsewhere, oil exporting nations raised crude prices in a move that could result in slightly higher gasoline and fuel oil prices, but sugar prices declined again for the third consecutive week.

President Ford got another urgent appeal to stimulate the economy; auto companies reported sharp declines in sales for early December, and a senator proposed an increase of 20 cents in gasoline taxes and a penalty tax on big cars.

THE increase in crude oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries also could bring new pressure on the Ford administration to abandon voluntary fuel conservation measures for mandatory controls.

Yule lockout threatened in Douglas talks

Douglas Aircraft Co. said Friday it may lock out 18,000 union workers in Long Beach and four other Southland facilities before Christmas in an effort to move stalled contract talks.

"It's a definite possibility," a spokesman for the builder of jumbo jets and other commercial aircraft said. He did not specify a date for the action.

Contracts between the company and the United Auto Workers and International Association of Machinists expired Sept. 15 but have been continued on a day-to-day basis.

The company said it had terminated the agreement, paving the way for the lockouts.

THE unions are demanding about the same pay increases they negotiated with Lockheed, North American Rockwell and Boeing. But Douglas contends it already pays a higher wage than its rivals and it will be unable to compete if it grants more increases.

A company spokesman said Douglas now has an average pay rate of $5.71 an hour while Boeing's new contract provides its workers with an average of $5.68 an hour.

A UAW spokesman said the Douglas figures were wrong, that Boeing employees were receiving $5.83 an hour.

Meanwhile, officials of the company—a division of McDonnell Douglas Corp.—said they were preparing a response Friday night to a union invitation that would have them present the company's contract position to a mass meeting of Douglas workers at Veterans Memorial Stadium Sunday. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

REPRESENTATIVES of the union presented the invitations to at least three company officials Friday, including Douglas president J. C. Brizendine.

The invitations were made against a backdrop of growing uncertainty among Douglas workers as to where they stand in the current bargaining impasse.

On Thursday, the company—having given seven days notice—terminated its contract with the union; and the termination, coupled with a propaganda war that has been marked by conflicting union and management claims, apparently has left many employees confused and even angry.

"I would like to know the truth from both sides," said Joan Sprague, a production control clerk at the Long Beach plant.

"I think both sides are lying to us, and they've got many of us real uptight. We don't know what they're up to," she added.

A similar sentiment was voiced by Dolores Johnson, another UAW member at the plant. Mrs. Johnson noted that the company had not paid union members for the two-day Thanksgiving holiday, and many workers are now wondering whether they'll be denied holiday pay for the Christmas vacation, too. (Normally, Thanksgiving and Christmas are paid holidays at Douglas.)

"WE'RE getting bits and pieces (of information) from both sides," said Mrs. Johnson, "but not the whole truth."

A union spokesman said the company has been telling its employees—in letters and flyers—that it has their best interests at heart. "Now, with Sunday's meeting, we're giving them ample opportunity to prove it," he declared.

"What we're saying, in effect, is show up or shut up," said Doug Griffin.

A company spokesman, asked whether Brizendine and other company officials would accept the union's invitation, would only say that the firm was preparing a response.

State board OKs proposal $1.4 billion schools plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $1.4 billion plan, seemingly certain to increase taxes and designed to make California's school finance system legal, was approved Friday by the state Board of Education.

But the proposal, endorsed unanimously by the board, failed to include a provision to offset expected inflation, and this could propel the additional cost to the taxpayer to as high as $2.4 billion.

The proposal was approved unanimously by the board and prepared for the Legislature. But chances for approval this year seem bleak because both Gov.-elect Edmund Brown Jr. and key legislative leaders have announced opposition to any general tax increase.

The program is designed to make the state comply with the state Supreme Court's "Serrano Decision" of 1972 which held the current system of financing schools unconstitutional because it denied children in poor districts equal opportunity for an education. The state has until 1980 to comply.

Approved on a voice vote without dissent, the proposal envisions pumping more than $7 billion into public education by 1980. Currently, public school education costs about $5.6 billion annually, a major portion of it derived by local property taxation.

The plan was drawn up by the State Department of Education. A spokesman said it failed to include a compensating provision for inflation because the "state of the economy is too iffy."

A keystone of the plan is a statewide property tax, in which local property taxes for schools would be collected in a common pool and distributed back to districts on an equalized basis.

Wealthy districts which now spend above the statewide average, such as Beverly Hills, long have expressed fear that such a plan would require them to cut back their education programs to a "common level of mediocrity."

The plan would allow districts to spend above the "equality" level, but the increase derived through taxes would be equalized among all the districts which also agreed to increase their property taxes for education.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles declined to concede that the board's plan would require higher taxes.

"It's a matter of priorities," he said. "We have freeways. Can we afford them? Shall we continue to build them? The money is here. The question is, what do we want to spend it for?"

Under the five-year plan, it would cost taxpayers $627 million the first year. The sum would decrease gradually to $195 million a year by 1980.

The sum in state revenue would be the difference between what was provided by the statewide property tax and what the department viewed as necessary to meet the court's mandate.

Richardson tapped as ambassador

BERNARD GWERTZMAN
WASHINGTON — Elliot Richardson, who resigned as attorney general 14 months ago during Richard Nixon's "Saturday night massacre" has been chosen to serve as President Ford's ambassador to London.

Ford is expected to announce shortly that Richardson will be nominated to replace Walter Annenberg, the Philadelphia publisher, who has served as envoy to the Court of St. James's since 1969 and has resigned.

Richardson's acceptance became known here as the White House announced that Atty. Gen.

William Saxbe had resigned to accept the nomination as ambassador to India, replacing Daniel Moynihan. Moynihan, who was named by Nixon in 1970, will return to Harvard in February.

The decision to name Richardson, a 54-year-old member of an old Boston family, has been a well-kept secret, with only a few highly placed American and British officials aware of it. An American source said news of the nomination had been well-received by the British.

The President offered the London post to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who failed to win renomination in the Arkansas Democratic primary and must step down when Congress adjourns this month. Fulbright turned down the offer because of his wife's health.

Richardson has been regarded as a leader of the liberal wing of the Republican Party since he resigned Oct. 20, 1973, rather than discharge

House votes strip-mine curbs

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — The House Friday approved a compromise bill to impose the first national controls on coal strip mining, but the White House announced it will be vetoed if it reaches President Ford's desk. The House passed the controversial measure by voice vote, sending it to the Senate where approval also was expected. Ford's decision to veto the bill was announced shortly after the House vote by Frank Zarb, executive director of the Energy Resources Council and new administrator of the Federal Energy Administration. Zarb claimed the bill was vague, open to legal challenges and would reduce national coal production by between 48 million and 141 million tons per year. The bill would impose stiff environmental standards for land reclamation after the coal is removed, authorize a reclamation fee on all coal production and grant surface owner rights to western ranchers who have federally owned coal beneath their lands. With Congress set to adjourn Dec. 20, it is doubtful that a veto could be overturned.

Sugar price sliced

NEW YORK — Led by Amstar Corp., the industry giant, the nation's sugar refiners dropped their wholesale prices for the third time in two weeks Friday. Analysts said the decrease was spurred by lagging sales and lower raw sugar prices and would almost inevitably be passed along to consumers.

Energy strategy

WASHINGTON — Key officials begin narrowing down the nation's energy policy options this weekend in the barbed-wire seclusion of the President's Camp David, Md., mountain retreat. Almost certain to be on the agenda are such energy conservation proposals as an oil import quota, restrictive oil tariffs, tight allocation of petroleum products similar to last winter's restrictions, and maybe even the gasoline tax and rationing ideas already rejected by President Ford. Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, who heads the Cabinet-level Energy Resources Council, said last Monday, "I think we've got to come up with some awful tough tur-

INTERNATIONAL

British inflation exceeds 18%

LONDON — The government said Friday that inflation in Britain has risen to a record 18.3 per cent a year, and the Bank of England said it would go higher unless wage demands are restrained. The bad news was coupled with word from the money market that the British pound had recovered fractionally from its all-time low against a grouping of major currencies. The pound dropped on the world market when Arab nations said they would no longer accept it in payment for oil. The inflation figures released by the department of employment for November showed an increase of 1.8 per cent in the cost of living over October. It meant the rate is the highest in the European Common Market. The department attributed the jump to increases in prices of coal and coke, sugar, milk, second-hand automobiles, clothing and "many other goods and services." Grocer magazine said there were 450 price increases in the supermarket this week alone.

Businessmen seized

LISBON — Military forces in a pre-dawn raid Friday arrested six businessmen whom the government charged with "grave acts of economic sabotage." Warrants were issued for six more men, all bankers, and a government communique asked the population for help in finding them. Arrested were Jorge Artur Rego de Brito, former president of the Banco Intercontinental Portugues and several other former officers of the bank which was taken over by the government last October.

key," meaning mandatory conservation measures. The dozen other participants were to be officials one step below Cabinet level and the weekend marathon was expected to result in no definite recommendations to the President but in analyses and proposals for consideration by the Cabinet-level Council.

'Unreasonable' search

NEW YORK — Law enforcement authorities have no right to cut extensively into a man's body to dig out a bullet that might connect him to a murder, a New York judge has ruled. In turning down the Queens district attorney's court move to force a suspect to undergo surgery, Justice Thomas Agresta of the State Supreme Court held Thursday that it would be an unreasonable search and offensive to fair play and decency. Dist. Atty. Nicholas Ferraro said Friday he had not yet decided whether to appeal the lower court decision, about which precedents on both sides exist. The man who won't part with the bullet is John Smith, 27, who police say killed a police lieutenant Henry Schmiemann last June 20. Schmiemann was shot on his way to work, evidently resisting a robber, but the mortally wounded officer was able to fire one shot from his own gun.

Price-fixing fines

NEWARK, N.J. — E.I. DuPont de Nemours and seven other major chemical firms were fined between $40,000 and $50,000 after pleading no defense to charges they rigged the price of dyes. The fines were levied Friday by U.S. District Judge Lawrence Whipple, who accepted nolo contendere (no contest) pleas from the firms in October. Earlier indictments charged that the firms, which controlled 60 per cent of the $180 million in annual dye sales in the country, conspired in 1971 to keep prices at an artificially high level. Fines of $50,000, the maximum amount, were levied against DuPont and the Verona Corp.; $45,000 against Ciba-Geigy and GAF Corp.; $43,500 against Allied Chemical Corp., BASF-Wyandotte and American Cyanamid; and $40,000 against Crompton & Knowles.

Peace force extended

UNITED NATIONS — The U.N. Security Council voted 14-0 Friday night to extend for another six months the authorization for the U.N. peacekeeping force on Cyprus. China did not vote. Authorization to keep the U.N. force on Cyprus would have expired Sunday but now it will be extended to June 15. Members of the 15-nation Security Council spent most of the day in private consultations, in which delegates of Cyprus, Turkey and Greece participated, before going into a formal meeting to vote on the extension. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, in recommending the extension, estimated the cost for the next six months at $13.7 million added to a $27.1 million deficit the peace force has incurred since its inception in 1964.

Female problem

GENEVA — Women have greater trouble than men to stop smoking, an American expert said Friday. Dr. Daniel Horn, director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, said the majority of women use cigarettes as a form of negative tranquilizer. Men use cigarettes for pleasure, he said. "There is no overall solution," Horn said. "It is question of finding other ways of getting satisfaction and there are many other things which give greater pleasure." Horn, who said he smoked for 16 years but stopped 20 years ago, said 30 million persons in the United States successfully stopped smoking but 40 million tried and failed. A further 10 to 15 million refuse to try.

Mrs. Ford cancels trip over illness

Combined News Services

First Lady Betty Ford has canceled plans to accompany the President on a weekend summit-meeting trip to Martinique because of a flare-up of osteoarthritis that has caused discomfort in her neck and lower back.

Sheila Weidenfeld, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, said the First Lady has suffered from the ailment for about 12 years and that it "periodically causes her some discomfort" in her neck and lower back. She said the current flare-up is expected to resolve itself in a few days.

Osteoarthritis, also known as degenerative arthritis, affects the bones and joints. But unlike rheumatoid arthritis, it usually does not result in the permanent stiffening of the joint.

The ailment "kicked up again" on Tuesday, Mrs. Weidenfeld said. She said Mrs. Ford is receiving a daily treatment of radiant heat and a daily massage. She said hot packs are also applied two or three times a day.

Mrs. Weidenfeld said the attack of osteoarthritis has nothing to do with the breast cancer surgery which Mrs. Ford underwent in September.

President Ford is traveling to Martinique to meet with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Good vibes

Former Beatles star George Harrison, wearing orange pants, red sneakers and a brown plaid jacket adorned with pop art buttons, ate lunch at the Executive Mansion Friday with Jack Ford and met his father, the President. He said afterward that he had "good vibes about the White House."

Harrison pinned a blue "eastern mystic button" with moon circles on President Ford's lapel and received a WIN (Whip Inflation Now) button in return.

"I didn't ask him about Bangladesh or anything else political," said Harrison after the meeting. "I didn't want to bug him."

Jack Ford, 22, a senior at the Utah State University, met Harrison and other rock performers Nov. 16 after their show in Salt Lake City. He invited them to visit when they came to Washington as part of a seven-week tour.

Giving up

Gov. John Gilligan Friday called off a recount in Ohio's gubernatorial elections after returns from 66 of Ohio's 88 counties showed "no significant change" in former Gov. James Rhodes' 11,414-vote victory margin.

With ballots from 10,405 of the state's 12,381 precincts tallied in the third day of the recount, Rhodes had increased his margin by 178 votes.

Malcom S. Forbes, the New York publisher who floated across the United States in a balloon last year, plans to take off later this month from California, hoping to float all the way to Europe or Africa.

Twelve attempts to cross the Atlantic by balloon have failed.

Forbes, 55, and Dr. Thomas Heinshelmer, 35, a Rolling Hills, Calif., space scientist, tested their gondola Thursday in a low pressure chamber at the Air Research Space Laboratory in Torrance. They plan to lift off from the Marine Corps helicopter station near Santa Ana, rise to 40,000 feet, and catch the jet stream to the Eastern Hemisphere.

Character

Actor Rufus Davis, who was probably best known as engineer Floyd Smoot on the TV series "Petticoat Junction," died Friday at Little Company of Mary Hospital in Torrance. He was 66.

Davis, an actor for 48 years, was born in 1908 in Vinson, Okla. He lived in Palos Verdes.

A rubber-faced character actor, Davis was featured in numerous Westerns in the 1930s and 1940s. He was in the "Three Mesquiteers" Western movie series and in such films as "Mountain Music," "Blossoms on Broadway" and "Big Broadcast of 1938."

Default

Singer Vikki Carr was granted a default divorce Friday from Norman Moss in Santa Monica Superior Court on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

Miss Carr, 33, and Moss, 36, her personal manager, were married in Palos Verdes in March 1968. They separated in March 1973 and had no children. Distribution of community and separate property was continued to a later date.

Dreamboat

Talbot and Natalie Jones of Minneapolis, Minn., steamed out of New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico Friday aboard their dream of three decades, a homemade sailboat named "Rainbow."

First they're going to Panama, where they were married. Then they'll head for the South Pacific.

"Home will be wherever we are on the Rainbow," said Mrs. Jones.

The Joneses said they had been dreaming of such an adventure since 1944, but began actively pursuing it six years ago when they and a dozen assorted friends and relatives began building the sailboat on their front lawn in Minneapolis.

The three-hulled, triple-sail ramaran took an estimated 10,000 hours to plan and build, Jones said. It cost $25,000 and most of their possessions to pay for it.

Relieved Fanne retiring

Fanne Foxe, the Argentine stripper whose career flourished after her friendship with Rep. Wilbur Mills became known, said late Friday that she's retiring.

Miss Foxe, billed as the Tidal Basin Bombshell after her relationship with Mills, D.-Ark., was disclosed, made the announcement to about 250 patrons at the Club Juana in the central Florida city of Casselberry.

"I don't want to bring any more bad publicity" to Mills, Miss Foxe was quoted as saying. She was nude from the waist up when she made the announcement.

Mills, who appeared on stage with Miss Foxe in Boston two weeks ago, has since entered a hospital and said he is retiring as chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

"This is such a relief," she later told newsmen in her dressing room. "I hope it will all end now."

2 L.B. facilities involved Financial woes hit rest homes

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A financial snarl that has forced a South Bay convalescent hospital into receivership Friday entangled two Long Beach area rest homes when a Superior Court temporary restraining order was issued against their operators.

The order, issued by Long Beach supervising

Judge Roy Brown, affects the 99-bed Esther Street Convalescent Hospital, 3850 Esther St., Long Beach, and the 198-bed Long Beach Convalescent Hospital, 2900 Pacific Coast Highway, Signal Hill.

Documents filed with the court allege that operators of the homes have channeled funds through a corporate complex "so as to defraud creditors of the corporate defendants."

MOST OF the occupants of those homes, the documents state, are elderly recipients of Medi-Cal and Medicare.

Under terms of the order—in effect until the court hears arguments in the dispute Dec. 26—operators of the homes are forbidden to remove any patients from the homes without court consent or to remove any patient monies from established trust funds.

The order also specifies that operators of the homes must not commit any act that might cause the state to revoke their convalescent hospital licenses.

That clause stems from an alleged threat by the operators to stop paying employees, according to court documents.

St., owners of the Esther Street home and lease-holders on the Signal Hill facility under auspices of a corporation they own.

In a declaration filed with the court Cook said that the Wills, through various firms, operate the two convalescent homes under lease agreements with him.

COOK alleged that the Will firms now have failed to pay three months rent on the two homes, have failed to pay other debts and have refused to pay any of the more than $128,000 involved.

As a result, Cook alleged, he is being threatened with foreclosure on the Esther Street property and termination of his lease on the Signal Hill property.

Cook also declared that he leases a third convalescent hospital in Torrance, the 256-bed South Bay Convalescent Hospital, 22617 S. Vermont Ave.

Cook said he subleases this home to the Will firms and a similar situation allegedly exists there. Cook said he's being sued for more than $46,000 in back rent and that facility has been placed in receivership.

UNLESS he's allowed to repossess the Esther Street and Signal Hill homes, Cook contends, he could stand to lose all three properties.

Other court documents indicate a fourth convalescent hospital, in the Riverside-area town of Pedley, might also be involved. The Lakeview Convalescent Hospital in Pedley is leased by Will interests from Cook under a July, 1974 agreement, according to a lawsuit exhibit.

A LITTLE LEARY

OLD AGE IS WHEN A PRETTY GAL INSPIRES MEMORIES INSTEAD OF HOPES

No. Since mobile homes in this state are registered with the California Department of Motor Vehicles and not with the county recorder as deeded property is, they cannot be homesteaded, according to an attorney and a spokesman for the Golden State Mobile Home Owners League. "We have been trying to get the laws changed so that mobile homes can be recorded in the same way that houses are, but we've been unsuccessful so far," the league spokesman said. Homesteading generally protects a person's house from forced sale for the benefit of creditors. It gives no protection, however, against liens on the property before the homestead was recorded. A person can homestead his house simply by buying a Declaration of Homestead form available at most stationery stores for about 25 cents. Fill out the form and send it with $3 for the first page and $1 for each additional page to the Los Angeles County Recorder, 227 B. Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif. 90012. A person must be residing in the house at the time he records the Declaration of Homestead, and only one property may be homesteaded at a time by an individual.

Snowballs

Several years ago, I made a Christmas decoration using mothballs and a liquid solution, but I can't remember the ingredients. I put a Santa Claus figurine in a brandy snifter with the liquid and the mothballs, and for a long time, the mothballs would move up and down and around, giving the appearance of a snowstorm. Can Action Line find out how to make this decoration? G.P., Long Beach.

Pour eight ounces of water into a bowl, add a tablespoonful of white vinegar and stir thoroughly. Next, add and dissolve one-half teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, and drop four mothballs into the bowl. The mothballs will rise and fall until the chemicals are used up. However, this process works only with mothballs made of naphthalene. If you are using paradichlorobenzene mothballs, which are heavier, you might be able to get the same effect by increasing the amount of soda to two ounces. Action Line obtained these instructions from Alexander Efron's book, "Experimental Physics for Young People", which is available at the Long Beach Main Library, 4500 E. Atherton St. The experiment is used to illustrate Archimedes' principle that a body immersed in a fluid is buoyed up by a force equal to the weight of the fluid displaced by the body.

Statue

I put a $25 deposit on a $225 statue of a saint at the Botanica La Reina De Mexico, 3425 E. First St. in Los Angeles, on July 30, 1973. The following week, my mother ordered one like it for her garden and made a $30 deposit. The statues were to be ready in three weeks but when I went to get them I was told they had been broken and reordered from Spain. A month later I was told the same thing. Each time I returned I got a runaround. When I try to contact the owner he's not in. Can Action Line help? Mrs. J.S., Long Beach.

No. We phoned the Botanica in vain for six weeks. When we first called, we spoke with a woman named Rosa who said she was the manager. She agreed to check her records about your statues and we arranged to phone her later in the day. We were not able to talk to her again, either at the shop or at her home. She was either not in or too busy, we were told. After two weeks, we spoke with Jose Perez who said Rosa no longer worked there and he was manager. He said only Rosa could handle the problem and promised to help us get in touch with her. He didn't and before long he was too busy to talk to us when we phoned.

Garnishee

My husband, who is not in a good financial position, had his wages garnished by his former wife to pay her alimony. Could he get a restraining order to prevent his wages from being garnished? Would he be able to file papers for a reduction of alimony because his financial position has changed since the original court order? Also, could someone who is not a lawyer represent my husband in court? J.G., Surfside.

Your husband could ask the court for a stay of execution on the basis of hardship to stop the garnishing of his wages. However, if this were approved the court still would order your husband to make some type of alimony payment. He could file papers with the county clerk's office for a court hearing on reduction of support payments. The papers must include a detailed financial statement in which he must declare his gross income, net income and expenditures. While your husband could represent himself in court, a person who is not an attorney could not represent him. To represent someone in court a person must be an attorney licensed by the State Bar of California.

THE operators targeted by the order and accompanying lawsuit are Modern Care of California, Inc., 3711 Long Beach Blvd.; three subsidiary corporations which operate the convalescent hospitals; and four persons identified as principals in the companies.

The individuals named are Oscar K. Will, identified as president of the companies; and John H. Will, Loree Will and Betty Will.

The order against the Will interests was sought by Herbert and Joan Cook, 5421 E. El Cedral

Rape victim beaten, run over by car

Associated Press
A 31-year-old Venice woman was reported in critical condition Friday after she was raped, beaten and run over by a car six times, police reported.

Timothy W. Shell, 20, and Larry Boyer, 21, also known as Lamar Lane, were arrested shortly after the incident and booked for investigation of forcible rape.

The woman was forced into a car by two men and driven several miles to an alley in central Los Angeles where she was stripped and raped, police said. Witnesses called police after seeing two men drag the woman from their car, beat her and ride back and forth over her.

Witnesses described the car to police, who found it about 30 minutes later, and the men were arrested while changing a flat tire.

Police said the woman was taken to California Hospital with multiple fractures and internal injuries.

Claims Mitchell was overruled

Mardian says Nixon was in charge

By WESLEY G. PIPPERT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Mardian testified in his own defense Friday that he believed President Richard Nixon was running the Committee to Reelect the President at the time of the Watergate break-in.

Mardian also agreed with a statement by U.S. District Judge John Sirica, presiding over the Watergate cover-up trial, that if the Republican National Committee had been running the campaign, Watergate might not have happened.

Mardian had resigned as head of the Justice Department's old Internal Security Division to go to the reelection committee at the request of his old colleague, John Mitchell, former attorney general and then campaign director.

Asked who ran the committee, Mardian replied, "When I first went over there I assumed it was John Mitchell. After I had been there some period of time, I concluded it was someone else."

"Well, who, for instance?" Sirica asked.

"President Nixon," Mardian replied. "I concluded that some of the decisions being made were not those of John Mitchell. He was overruled on several occasions. I didn't know of anyone in government who could overrule John Mitchell but the President."

Later, with the jury out of the courtroom, Sirica asked Mardian about the conduct of the campaign. "That's why the Watergate break-in didn't make any sense," Mardian replied.

"What is the genesis, who was the person who thought up the idea of setting up 'CREP' rather than working through the regular Republican National Committee," Sirica asked.

"I'm an expert on that, Mardian said.

Then he told of the 1952 GOP dispute in Texas between the forces of President Eisenhower and Sen. Robert Taft. "The party people were taking a partisan position which they shouldn't have done," he said. "As a result, they created the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign committee and separated it out. They did the same thing in 1956 and 1960."

"Isn't it a fact that a lot of amateur politicians got mixed up in 'CREP'?"

Sirica said. "You collect all this money. You get a lot of amateur politicians and this is the result. Right?" Sirica asked.

"If they had let the Republican National Committee run the election, you wouldn't have had 'CREP'," Sirica asked.

"That is true, your honor," Mardian said. "Earlier, Mardian denied any involvement in the Watergate cover-up, answering allegations of incriminating behavior with a loud 'No!'"

Mardian, the fourth of Nixon's former aides to present his defense in the Watergate cover-up trial, replied with terse, loud answers to a series of questions put to him by defense lawyer Thomas Green.

Lawyers and witnesses haggled over what time people played golf and did housework on June 17, 1972 — Watergate break-in day — in a dispute over who ordered G. Gordon Liddy to get the burglars out of jail.

$2 million image-building program unveiled by GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Mary Louise Smith unveiled the party's $2 million image-building program Friday, earmarking most of the money for media advertising.

The program, approved last Friday by the Republican National Committee's Executive Committee, has already come under fire from some party leaders who say that performance in office, especially by President Ford, holds the key to GOP success in 1976.

Mrs. Smith told a press briefing the basis for the program is the belief "we have done a poor job of selling ourselves."

BUT SHE insisted heatedly that "this is not a packaged, phony, artificial, cosmetic PR hustle."

"The advertising program is part of a total communications program, which is only one part of the overall program of the committee," she said.

She was asked about the statement by Gov. Christopher S. Bond of Missouri, new chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, who said, "I do not believe that the answer to our party's problems lies in some cosmetic approach to sell people on how truly great we are."

"The governor is right," she said.

She objected to advance reports that she was announcing a $2 million program to improve the party image. But she said later it would cost $500,000 to get the program going and up to $1.5 million for media advertising.

The targets of the drive, she said, are disaffected Republicans and persons "who share the Republican philosophy" but haven't voted for GOP candidates.

ASKED if she felt the GOP, which lost heavily in November, should change its position to attract more voters, she said, "I do not think we have to change what we stand for. I think we're positioned correctly."

Senate OKs ex-Exxon aide for FEA post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday approved the nomination of a former oil industry executive to be assistant administrator of the Federal Energy Administration, despite Democratic complaints of a conflict of interest.

Melvin A. Conant, who received a $90,000 severance payment from Exxon, was confirmed by a vote of 55 to 35 as assistant administrator for international energy affairs. He was Exxon's senior government relations counselor for Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

March, when a National Leadership Conference will take place here, some $500,000 will be spent on the program. That includes $150,000 for Bozell and Jacobs, the Omaha-based firm that will develop it, and $75,000 for research to determine what Republicans think they stand for.

The $2 million will come from an expanded National Committee budget of $12 million, of which $3 million will be earmarked for the 1976 campaign.

The party raised $7 million and spent $6.5 million in 1974.

New House Demos to ask delay in Rocky confirmation

By LINDA CHARLTON
WASHINGTON — Despite the widespread view that Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president is an all-but-accomplished fact, several members of the House of Representatives plan last-minute attempts to stall approval until the new Congress convenes.

Among this group are 18 representatives-elect—Democrats elected in November who will be members of the next Congress. They have written to House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma to ask that the vote on confirmation be delayed until the 94th Congress is seated in January.

"A self-impeached president nominated the man who became the first non-elected president in American history," the letter said. "He in turn, has nominated a man who, if confirmed, will become the second non-elected vice president in our history."

"THE MEN and women who will be seated in January, winners in the first national election held since the Watergate-Nixon scandal, are the closest we can come to a direct expression of the people's will. If there is to be a vote on this nomination, it should be theirs."

Another move involves at least four of the 12 Democrats on the House Judiciary Committee who voted Thursday against sending the nomination to the full House with a recommendation for approval. All four are liberal Democrats, but reportedly several conservative members of Congress, as well as several other liberals on and off the committee, are considering a similar step.

They have asked, or will ask, that the rules committee allow them to testify when it holds a formal hearing next week on the committee's request that the confirmation resolution be sent to the floor of the House, and for eight hours of debate before the vote.

REP. Jerome R. Waldie, one of the Judiciary Committee members who opposed Rockefeller's nomination, said he would tell the Rules Committee that "a more extensive inquiry" was necessary, including testimony from David Rockefeller, chief executive officer of the Chase Manhattan Bank and a brother of the nominee.

Such testimony, he said in a telephone interview Friday, is vital if the committee is to assess correctly the extent to which members of the Rockefeller family act "in concert."

Rep. Don Edwards of California said that he planned to "go in and just briefly express opposition" to the committee's request and its approval of Rockefeller. Edward Mezvinsky of Iowa, another committee Democrat who voted "no," said that he, too, thought that the Rules Committee should "at least allow those who have reservations to be heard."

WALDIE said that he thought it unlikely that there would be a delay.

Ralph Nader, the consumer advocate, has written to Peter W. Rodino Jr., the New Jersey Democrat who is chairman of the Judiciary Committee, asking the committee "to establish a clear information policy on public access to background materials which do not appear in the published committee hearings and report."

Feels Ford didn't force him out Saxbe says successor 'faces problems'

WASHINGTON (AP) — William B. Saxbe, who has resigned as attorney general and been appointed ambassador to India, a White House spokesman announced Friday, confessed to some regrets about leaving the Justice Department with several major projects only recently begun.

His successor, he said Friday, must confront such difficult problems as the nation's rising crime rate and a sharp increase in illegal immigration.

Saxbe said he has not discussed the appointment of his successor with President Ford. But Saxbe suggested that Deputy Atty. Gen. Laurence H. Silberman would be an "excellent choice."

"If I had a recommendation to make," Saxbe said, "it would be Mr. Silberman, but I don't think I should be a part of it. I'm certainly not indicating that he has any inside track or that I have any information about it."

WILLIAM B. SAXBE
At Press Conference
—AP Wirephoto

As U.S. envoy to India, Saxbe would succeed Daniel P. Moynihan, who is resigning to return to his teaching duties at Harvard University in February.

Being ambassador to India, Saxbe told newsmen, is "something I've wanted for a long time." He said he has been interested in Indian affairs and has traveled in India for the past five years.

"I believe that, outside of the State Department, I have as much knowledge of Indian affairs as any figure in Congress or in the government," Saxbe said. "To improve our relations with India is one difficult problem. At a time of world instability... to be ambassador will be a challenge and a real adventure for me."

Saxbe's nomination is subject to Senate confirmation. He said he did not expect his name to be submitted to the Senate until after the first of the year.

He said he expected to continue as attorney general until confirmed as ambassador or until the Senate confirmed a new attorney general, whichever came first.

Although Saxbe is the first Cabinet member to leave since Ford became President last August, he said he did not feel the President was forcing him out.

Describing a private meeting with Ford on Monday, Saxbe said the President immediately offered him the ambassadorship and that he immediately accepted.

"It's kind of hard to say what would have happened if I had put up a struggle," Saxbe said in response to questions.

In his letter accepting Saxbe's resignation, Ford noted that Saxbe had aspired to rebuild Justice Department morale and revive public confidence in the law in the midst of Watergate turmoil.

"The impressive record you have compiled as attorney general has in large measure brought fulfillment of those goals," Ford wrote.

Asked how that outspokenness would affect his diplomatic career, Saxbe replied: "Once I go to India, I'm going to be speaking for the United States, and I'll keep that in mind at all times."

'Exhausted' Cole quits White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kenneth R. Cole Jr., a Nixon holdover who says he is "exhausted," Friday submitted his resignation as President Ford's chief domestic adviser.

Cole, 36, will be leaving as executive director of the domestic council in March after assisting in the preparation of the next State of the Union address and Ford's legislative program.

In an exchange of letters with Cole, Ford said that he was accepting the resignation with "deepest regret."

"Needless to say, you will be greatly missed here at the White House where you have served so admirably for the past six years," the President wrote.

He noted that since the earliest days of the Nixon administration Cole had "played a leading and vital role in shaping the direction of national domestic policy."

In a telephone interview, Cole, a former advertising executive, said he had not yet made a decision on his future plans. "I'm exhausted," he said. "I've been trying to leave since 1972 but was persuaded to stay on."

In response to a question, he expressed the view that the most important legislation which he had helped to draft was the Cancer Control Act of 1970.

He has no plans to write a book and said he has not kept any notes on his White House years.

In his letter to Ford, Cole said, "When President Nixon asked me to join the White House staff six years ago, I came with the personal conviction that the federal government had grown so big as to be unresponsive to the people's needs and with the personal desire to help in the restoration of power and responsibility to the people themselves."

"Through such historic initiatives as general revenue sharing," he added, "I believe that process of restoration has begun."

KKK entering presidential race

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP) — Ku Klux Klan leaders gather this weekend to ratify the selection of their first presidential candidate and to "expose our enemies."

Attorney James Venable, imperial wizard of the National Knights of the KKK, said as many as 50 leaders from Texas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Louisiana may attend sessions tonight and Sunday.

"We're getting together to discuss the problems facing our nation, to aid the exposure of the enemy," Venable said. "We also want to discuss putting a president in for 1976."

The 16-member Imperial Board must give final ratification to candidates for president and vice president during a closed session Sunday, he said.

Dale Reusch, 35, of Lodi, Ohio, grand dragon of the KKK in that state, was selected as the KKK's presidential candidate during an annual meeting last September.

Reusch selected Scott Nelson, 35, of Houston, Tex., as his running mate. Nelson is the imperial wizard of the Texas Fiery Knights, an independent Klan faction.

Venable said the 50 grand dragons and imperial wizards representing 289,000 members will discuss national problems and "try to expose our enemies — the Federal Reserve, United Nations and discuss this Rockefeller being appointed."

He said the Klan had spent millions of dollars to oppose the vice presidential nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller. "The senators are scared of him, except (Sen. Barry) Goldwater," he said.

Venable, 68, who claims his 50 years in the KKK makes him the senior Klansman in the nation,

DALE REUSCH
KKK Candidate

owns land adjacent to the Stone Mountain State Park east of Atlanta. The huge granite mountain once was owned by Venable's family and is known as the home of the KKK.

At the annual convention Labor Day weekend, Venable said KKK leaders would campaign against foreign aid, welfare, the United Nations, taxes, the Federal Reserve and the current system of "regional government."

Campus racial slurs banned

BOSTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. ordered on Friday that city school authorities ban racial slurs made on school property. He also ordered city officials to enforce stern measures against demonstrations near schools or school bus routes.

But he rejected a bid for National Guard troops to protect students being bused into South Boston.

The possibility of closing South Boston High School for the year, or even permanently, also arose.

Garrity's order to the Boston School Committee said the committee should draw up regulations against the use of such epithets as "nigger" and "white trash."

HE DIRECTED Mayor Kevin H. White to ask police to prevent all gatherings of three or more people and any noise, picketing, display of signs, or violence likely to disturb classes within 100 yards of any public school in South Boston and 50 yards elsewhere.

Violence at South Boston High School Wednesday injured more than a dozen demonstrators and police and resulted in the arrest of several whites. An estimated 1,000 whites battled police in an effort to block busing of black students back home after the school was closed when a student was stabbed.

Garrity also directed the mayor to take action prohibiting gatherings of three or more people engaged in or threatening violence along any bus route into or out of South Boston. The prohibitions apply only during school hours.

White, seated in the courtroom, was asked by Garrity if he had anything to say. He said he recommended to the School Committee the permanent closing of South Boston High School.

At a minimum, White said, the school should be closed for the rest of the school year.

Garrity said he would not second-guess school authorities on whether the school should be closed and granted a motion of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, one of the plaintiffs in the case, to require reports on where the students could attend school if South Boston High were closed.

GARRITY said he ordered White on Oct. 9 to use his office to protect blacks being bused into South Boston.

"I don't believe the failure to maintain order in any way was attributable to a violation of the previous (court) order. It was just a miscalculation," Garrity said.

Tape records couple's slaying

DETROIT (UPI) — A police telephone operator listened on the line as intruders pumped 24 bullets into the bodies of a Detroit couple but mistook the noise for "someone hammering or building something," authorities said Friday.

The operator, according to police, held on the line for several minutes after the killings Dec. 6, then dispatched the call as a routine burglary.

Police arrived on the scene 25 minutes later to find the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Ledbetter. A tape recording of the six-minute call shows that Ledbetter, 58, and his wife Lydia, 61, were shot moments after the operator received the call.

The tape recording painted a picture of the killings. The call received at 7:45 p.m. begins with the operator answering: "Detroit police emergency."

"Oh, would you please send someone right away?" said a voice later identified as that of Mrs. Ledbetter. "Someone broke in and killed my dog."

Then a series of seven sharp reports are heard. The telephone sounded as if it fell from Mrs. Ledbetter's hand.

The first series of shots is followed by silence. The operator is heard breathing.

At this point, police theorize, Ledbetter ran from another part of the house into the living room.

Another gunshot was heard, followed by a groan. Then another report, followed by a man's voice saying, "Oh, no."

A third report is audible, clearly followed by the man — presumed to be Ledbetter — saying "no, don't!" and what sounds like "okay, okay."

Three more shots were fired. The operator remained on the line for the four-minute period of silence that followed.

Finally, first one, then two, then three, then a rapid series of eight shots was heard. Then the operator disconnected the call, police said.

Two men have been charged with the murders. They were identified as Jeffrey Dorsey, 22, the Ledbetters' next-door neighbor, and Joseph Thomas, 20. A third man is being sought.

The couple's dog, a German shepherd, was found dead in Dorsey's home which led police quickly to the suspects.

EPA calls claims 'Doubletalk' LaForce engine said faulty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government official said Friday the experimental LaForce auto engine is no more mechanically efficient than standard engines and causes more carbon monoxide pollution.

Eric O. Stork of the Environmental Protection Agency said government testing had disproved most of the claims made by LaForce developers. He described one of those claims as "unscientific doubletalk."

"We regret that we cannot confirm the exciting claims that have been made for the car by its developers and promoters," claims that have given the American people some new hope that some simple solution to the air pollution and fuel-shortage problem is at hand," Stork told the Senate Commerce Committee.

EPA scientists have been testing the engine developed by Robert and Edward LaForce of Richmond, Vt.

Edward LaForce, who attended the briefing, said he doubted the validity of some of the EPA tests.

Stork, who helps administer the EPA's mobile-source air pollution control program, had refused earlier this week to tell the committee how the LaForce engine had fared in EPA tests because no written report had been issued.

He agreed to Friday's briefing at the insistence of Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who said Stork had no legal right to refuse.

Stork's review of major

LaForce claims, and the EPA findings, included:

— The claim that the LaForce engine boosts gasoline mileage 20 to 80 per cent with increased power and performance. Stork said "the LaForce... has about 30 per cent better fuel economy, but it does so at a 15 to 32 per cent loss in horsepower output."

— The EPA finding that, if the LaForce were modified to produce the same horsepower and acceleration, its fuel economy would be "no better than the fuel economy of the standard car."

— The claim that the LaForce does not need exhaust controls. Stork said "the LaForce engine has much higher emissions of unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide than does the conventional engine," although it emits less of some other pollutants.

— The claim that regular engines waste one-fourth of each gallon of gasoline, while the LaForce is much more efficient. Stork said "this is unscientific doubletalk."

House votes airlines aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted 221-54 Friday to give troubled Pan American World Airways and other U.S. international airlines up to $296.5 million in extra payments for carrying air mail.

The legislation also would require that all U.S. government-financed travel be by U.S. flag carriers whenever possible. U.S. airlines, in addition, would be given some relief from unfair competitive practices by foreign countries.

The Senate has passed a similar bill which would be much less generous in increasing air mail payments. A compromise bill now will be worked out in a House-Senate conference committee.

MOST of the excess postal payments in the House bill would go to Pan Am, which is beset by deficits and has been requesting government subsidies.

Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., proposed the postal rate amendment, which passed 154-131.

Under the Murphy amendment, the U.S. Postal Service would be required to pay U.S. flag carriers the same rates as most foreign airlines get under the international mail agreements of the Universal Postal Union (UPU).

UPU rates, which the U.S. government also must pay whenever U.S. mail travels by a foreign airline, are a maximum of $1.73 per ton-mile for letters. Rates for U.S. carriers such as Pan Am, however, are set by the Civil Aeronautics Board and range from 30 cents to 33 cents per ton-mile.

"My amendment calls for equity, not subsidy," Murphy said.

OPPONENTS countered that the UPU rates actually amount to a subsidy paid to foreign airlines by foreign governments and do not accurately reflect the cost of carrying mail.

The U.S. Postal Service has estimated the Murphy Amendment would cost $96.5 million in extra payments. Murphy said the correct figure would be closer to $57.5 million.

The Senate bill only would direct the government to take "all necessary and appropriate actions" to bring UPU rates down, and would direct the CAB to act expeditiously on rate increase requests.

State denied oil firms' files

Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — A Sacramento judge has rejected a request from the California attorney general that he be allowed to examine business records of the state's seven major oil firms as part of an antitrust investigation.

The records, in the custody of the Joint Legislative Committee on Public Domain, assertedly demonstrate that the firms have conspired to deprive California of a fair price for tidelands oil, committee chairman Kenneth Cory has said.

Cory, a Garden Grove assemblyman who will be sworn in as California's controller next month, is expected to be replaced as committee chairman by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles.

SUPERIOR Court Judge William M. Gallagher, in his order rejecting the attorney general's request, upheld an objection by Union Oil Company lawyers that the state official was not a party to the case involving the committee and the oil firm and therefore had no standing to seek an order modification.

The firms had complied with a committee subpoena for the records after Gallagher had issued an order prohibiting committee personnel from disclosing the contents of the documents to anyone else.

On Nov. 18, after analyzing the records.

Cory's committee issued a report charging that California's "seven major oil companies are now and have been engaged in illegal activities to reduce the price of crude oil, while maintaining high prices for refined products."

THE COMMITTEE urged "immediate and vigorous antitrust prosecution," and the attorney general's anti-trust office acknowledged that an investigation had begun.

Last Wednesday, the attorney general asked Gallagher to let him inspect the documents. Gallagher refused, but he suggested he might look favorably on a committee request to modify the confidentiality order.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren J. Abbott, who heads the attorney general's anti-trust department said he was considering issuing a subpoena of his own for the records.

Two firms, Shell and Atlantic Richfield, have reportedly agreed to provide the attorney general with their records, but Texaco, Exxon, Union, Mobil, and Standard of California have refused.

PARTIAL ECLIPSE of the Sun Friday is shown in this multiple exposure over the Boston skyline. Clouds obscured the eclipse in many sections of the eastern half of the nation. In California, the eclipse ended before the sun rose.

Clouds ruin eclipse for some

Associated Press

Mother Nature is something of a tease. She boasted of a partial solar eclipse Friday, then spread a cloak of clouds over some areas of the country where the solar spectacle might have been seen best.

"It's a shame to miss this one," said Thomas Lesser, astronomer at the Hayden Planetarium in New York City, where skies were leaden all day.

"The last one visible in New York was two years ago," he added. "You might have two, three, four partial eclipses a year but not all visible in the same place — New York, Australia or Siberia. But it's not often a city the size of New York with eight million people gets to see astronomy in action."

There were some bright spots, however. Clear, crisp weather made viewing ideal in Boston, and a cloud cover in Washington wasn't enough to prevent viewing.

"The weather was absolutely gorgeous for viewing. There were no clouds, and it wasn't too cold. It was beautiful out there," said Richard Pini of Boston Museum's Hayden Planetarium.

However, checks across the country, especially in the eastern half of the nation where the eclipse was to have lasted up to three hours and have been up to 60 or 70 per cent effective, brought gloomy response.

"Clouds are the nemesis of all astronomers," said Barry Gordon, a member of the Amateur Astronomers Association.

In Wisconsin, Friday the 13th proved doubly unlucky. Not only was the view of the partial eclipse obscured by clouds, but the clouds dumped light snow and freezing rain over much of the area.

Clouds also eclipsed the eclipse in areas ranging from Cleveland to Charlotte, N.C. Clouds and fog shut the spectacle out in Florida, where observers took to rooftops to look for the eclipse.

Out West, the eclipse was much shorter-lived where clear skies prevailed. Almost as soon as the sun rose, the eclipse ended.

In areas where the skies were too gray to darken for the eclipse, they may have cleared by evening for the second half of the day's double feature: meteor.

The "shooting stars" are particles of matter which burn up as they enter the earth's atmosphere and are part of one of a number of old comets' tail through which the earth passes annually, meteorologists say.

For those who failed to see the eclipse this year, Lesser says to mark the following days and events on your calendar:

—May 11, 1975, a partial eclipse of the sun, visible over the extreme north-eastern corner of the U.S.

—April 29, 1976, another partial eclipse of the sun, again visible in the north-eastern part of the U.S.

—May 24-25, 1975, a total lunar eclipse during a full moon.

Israel told to freeze growth

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said Friday that if there is to be peace in the Middle East, Israel must freeze its population and accept no more immigrants for the next 50 years.

Fahmi advised Israel to accept the 1947 U.N. resolution partitioning Palestine between Arabs and Jews or alternatively the Palestinians' demand for a secular state embracing Jews, Moslems and Christians.

Israel also will have to compensate the Palestinians for the "material and moral damage they suffered for the past 28 years" as well as Arab countries which took part in the 1967 war, Fahmi said.

"Not only this, but it is imperative that in any political settlement Israel will be committed to freezing the number of its population at its current level and pledge not to accept any more immigrants for the next 50 years," he said.

He said Israel also must sooner or later extend recognition to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Fahmi was replying to remarks by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin broadcast Thursday night on British television. His address was broadcast by the Middle East News Agency.

In his remarks, Rabin said Israel would prefer to make a separate agreement with Egypt first, then deal with the other individual Arab countries, rather than bargain collectively with the entire group.

"It is clear from these remarks that Rabin has still not become aware of the realities of the Middle East situation," Fahmi said.

TRADE BILL

A. Kissinger and the highest Soviet officials.

"This is truly a historic achievement for decency, human rights and the security of minorities," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., one of three senators involved in the negotiations.

Javits, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., praised the efforts of Ford and Kissinger in reaching the agreement, which helped revive the trade bill.

The emigration agreement represents a rare use of U.S. economic might to ensure human rights in a foreign country.

Jackson said that early next year he will seek explicit authority for his investigations subcommittee to monitor Russia's compliance with the agreement.

In case of noncompliance, he said, Congress can exercise its veto power over trade concessions or credits to the Soviet Union.

Jackson said Ford has given a personal pledge to act if there are clear violations.

These assurances were given after Sen. James L. Buckley, C-R-N.Y., said harassment of Soviet citizens seeking to emigrate has been intensified since last October's exchange of letters between Jackson and Kissinger spelling out the agreement.

Buckley said people he had talked with on a recent visit to Russia expressed concern that these tactics were intended to dry up applications for emigration visas while the Soviet Union enjoys the benefits of increased trade with this country.

By a 71-19 vote, 11 more than required, the Senate earlier Friday ruled out consideration of a non-trade amendment that threatened to block passage of the far-reaching trade bill.

$1 billion swindle charges denied by coin-silver dealer

By KRIS SHERMAN Staff Writer

A Long Beach-based coin and silver dealer, charged by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) with bilking approximately 25,000 customers out of $1 billion, said Friday his firm is solvent and denied allegations that it sold gold and silver it did not have.

Louis E. Carabini Jr., president and chief stockholder of the Pacific Coast Coin Exchange (PCCCE), 3711 Long Beach Blvd., said his company dealt with its customers in a "forthright, factual and honest" manner.

Carabini, of Los Alamitos, also denied a report from the SEC Washington office which claims the firm was bankrupt and said the coin exchange had engineered what was believed to be the largest fraud of its kind in U.S. history.

Carabini's statements came in response to SEC allegations that the Long Beach-based firm—known abroad as Monex International Ltd., Inc.—used a "polished" national advertising campaign to entice people to buy gold and silver on margin (with only a down payment).

The SEC claims the firm sold the coins mostly through telephone orders, promising to store them in vaults (at a charge of $10 per bag).

The SEC also alleges that the firm does not have the coins it sold.

An SEC suit filed against the PCCCE on Thursday alleges that the company and its principal officer, Carabini, "have taken approximately $1 billion from the American public while deceiving the public as to what PCCCE does with their monies."

The firm consented to the SEC charges Thursday before Federal District Judge Harry Pregerson, who took the plea under advisement, along with a request from the SEC that the firm be required to "disgorge" any fraudulent income it may possess.

The PCCCE "consent" to the charges is neither an admission nor a denial of guilt, but merely an agreement not to contest the charges, officials said. SEC regional administrator Gerald E. Boltz said the Washington reports that the PCCCE was bankrupt were incorrect and the firm does have assets.

Patrick Lucier, who identified himself as a "close associate" of Carabini at the firm's Newport Beach office, Friday said the company has assets of $300 million.

He said the firm will discontinue margin sales as of Monday but will continue to accept delivery orders and cash business. In addition, Lucier said, the firm hopes to resume margin sales within two or three weeks.

Carabini said all customers have received certificates of ownership to certain bags of silver and audited statements showing the bags on deposit at one of the firm's eight depositories, mostly bank vaults.

If there were a "run," Lucier added, "we could deliver every single obligation within 30 days."

The firm, which began in 1963 as a small coin collectors shop, lists its officers as Carabini,

Legislators told SSI isn't working

By CAROL IVY
Staff Writer

The California Joint Legislative Committee on Aging was told Friday that the federal government's Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program isn't working.

The nearly year-old program more closely resembles a new form of social insecurity, according to representatives of several state and local agencies concerned with problems of old people, as well as a handful of low-income elderly. They testified during a special all-day hearing in the Long Beach City Council chambers.

Most of them blamed the system's failures on lack of staff and communications with local Social Security offices, which are charged with administering SSI.

The session was called by chairman of the committee, Assemblyman John E. Thurman, D-Merced, in response to countless complaints, questions and suggestions from people in this area of the state, regarding SSI.

Other members of the committee present included vice chairman

Peter Behr, R-Marin County; Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach; Assemblyman Frank Murphy, R-Santa Cruz County.

In opening remarks, Thurman said he hoped the hearing would give those directly affected by SSI an opportunity to offer suggestions for state legislation to improve the system in California.

States have an economic share with the federal government in making SSI payments to eligible seniors, disabled and blind. Currently in California, the state is paying approximately $55 million monthly and the federal government $40 million monthly to SSI recipients.

On Jan. 1, the federal government took over all state aid programs for the aged, blind and disabled and added the cases to the already heavy Social Security offices' workloads, increasing personnel in those offices only slightly.

The changeover has been plagued with serious, confusing malfunctions. Some seniors and disabled persons have yet to receive a single check. Others continue to receive checks for incorrect amounts.

Most problems have been traced to problems with the government's central Social Security computer in Baltimore and to shortages and undertraining of staff people in local offices.

George Toll, chairman of the Senior Citizens Advisory Commission in Long Beach, aired a complaint heard several times during the day's testimony.

"It is virtually impossible for the SSI recipients to get through to the Social Security office — either by telephone or visiting personally."

He said that many times older people will stand in line or wait in the Social Security office lobby all day, only to be told to take a number and return the next day. Other speakers agreed with Toll's assessment of the situation.

Long Beach Social Security office manager Sumio Oto responded, "We do the best we can. Sometimes we cannot help all the people who come in on a specified day and

Woman wins share of academy honors

By VINT MADER
Staff Writer

Petite Bridget McGowan of Long Beach became the first woman in the history of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Academy to win its top Honor Cadet award when she shared that prize Friday with a Norwalk man at the graduation of the academy's 169th class.

Bridget and James L. Masters, both 24, "compiled the same impressive scores, no matter how the training staff tried to separate them," noted Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess.

It was also the first time that the staff had been unable to select "one superior cadet" from a class on the basis of scores in four categories, academic grades, practical performance, maturity and social relations and personality traits during the 24-week class, Pitchess said.

Before his surprise announcement naming two winners of the top certificates of merit, Pitchess mystified the 82-member class and the audience of about 700 in the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors hearing room in the Hall of Administration with a series of clues to the honor cadet. In addition to being unmarried and belonging to his own department (rather than trainees from other jurisdictions who have sometimes won the honor award in the sheriff's classes), Pitchess said he had a winner who "in quiet moments will engage in the creative art of crocheting."

He then summoned the two prize winners to the podium to receive their special certificates.

Each of the honor cadets also received from Frank Shine, vice president of United California Bank, a service revolver and holster, a gift that the bank traditionally has presented to the winner in each class.

In a brief interview after the graduation ceremonies, Bridget described her winning of the top award as "just fantastic" and called it "a good start" on her career with the sheriff's department.

"I'm very pleased to be honor cadet, and as far as law enforcement is concerned, it's the best thing to be in. It's just a great field."

Bridget has two brothers already in the Los Angeles Police Department, David, a police officer and Shawn, a fingerprint technician.

David was among relatives of 19 members of the graduation class whom Pitchess had stand up in the audience after identifying them as serving law enforcement personnel. Bridget's other brother was unable to attend the ceremonies.

The class included 21 other women and had 26 officers from 11 other law enforcement jurisdictions.

Computer monitor for heart rhythms New lifesaving system due

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A computer-assisted early warning system to detect abnormal heart rhythms will be put into operation in January in the acute care wing of St. Mary Medical Center.

Dr. Irvin Ungar, medical director of the center's department of applied physiology, said the system has lifesaving potential.

It is a product of St. Mary's cooperative effort with biomedical engineers at Long Beach State University.

The system was custom-designed within the medical center and will be "piggy-backed" on the existing computerized system for monitoring patients in the coronary care unit and intensive care unit.

The new system will provide 24-hour monitoring for as many as 16 patients, Ungar said.

At the outset it will be set up to detect abnormal heartbeats known as premature ventricular contractions. Doctors call them PVCs for short.

The significance of PVCs is that they may be forerunners of life-threatening heart action known as ventricular fibrillation — a chaotic, useless quivering of the heart muscle.

But if PVCs are detected early enough, certain medications can be given to avoid the onset of the dangerous ventricular fibrillations, Ungar said.

Computer-assisted monitoring of heart rhythm is actually a primitive form of "artificial intelligence," says Victor Uebel, a biomedical engineer and administrative manager of St. Mary's department of applied physiology.

"In the past the monitoring equipment would simply indicate that a heartbeat had occurred and determine if the heart was beating within prescribed limits," Uebel said.

With the new monitoring, however, the computer examines each beat. It determines duration and interval between beats. It even recognizes patterns of beat.

"Similar to handwriting, arrhythmias (abnormal rhythms) vary from one individual to the next," Uebel says.

The computer adapts to each patient, comparing each new beat to the patient's previous cardiac activity.

St. Mary's biomedical engineering team receives manpower assistance through a residency program sponsored jointly by St. Mary's and the Long Beach State University Biomedical Engineering Research Institute, directed by Morton Schwartz, Ph. D. Partial funding for the project was provided by the Cardiovascular Research Center based at St. Mary's and directed by Dr. Dominic DeCristofaro, chief of the hospital's catheterization laboratory.

Reduced teacher-pupil rate proposed

A proposal that would reduce the teacher-pupil ratio in the Long Beach Unified School District has been made by teacher groups.

School district officials said they will have to study the plan for several weeks before they make a formal response. The proposal would raise school costs considerably, they said.

The plan would reduce by five the number of children in each class from first through sixth grade. Kindergarten and other special classes would be reduced even more sharply.

Most junior high classes would have seven fewer youngsters and high school courses would lose an average of five students each.

The reduction would be made gradually during the next five years, according to the proposal.

Jerry King, president of the Long Beach Federation of Teachers and a member of the Certificated Employees Council (CEC) that meets regularly with school officials, introduced the plan in a CEC meeting.

"The smaller the class size, the more individual attention a teacher can give each student," King said.

However, Joseph T. McCleary, administrative assistant to the superintendent of schools, said that studies on class size and the quality of education yield conflicting conclusions.

But he said the greatest obstacle to reducing class size is lack of money.

"The CEC didn't estimate how much the proposal would cost, but it's obvious it would cost a great deal," he said.

It will probably take two or three months to gather research material and make cost estimates on the class-size proposal, McCleary said.

According to the proposal, the average class size in grades one through three is now 30. In grades four through six, it's 35; in grades seven through nine, 37; and in high school, 35-37. Some classes, such as physical education, average as many as 52. Other special classes are smaller than the average.

The CEC proposal would reduce class sizes earliest in the lower grades and basic-skill areas and in central city schools.

McCleary said that class size in the district had been steadily reduced since the district's enrollment peak in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

LBCC — where the ol' salts study

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

When the USS Piedmont moored at Naval facilities on Terminal Island to undergo repairs last spring, the ship's educational officers asked Long Beach City College to give the crew courses in Italian and Western European culture.

Next stop for the Piedmont would be Naples, Italy, which would become home port for the ship.

Another unusual request for LBCC came from officers of the USS Mobile, who had a large contingent of Guamanians aboard.

They wanted an English as a Second Language course for Guamanian crewmen during the Mobile's stay at Terminal Island.

In both cases, the requests were granted, and the special classes opened at LBCC's Terminal Island Campus, which college officials believe is the first and only branch campus located on military facilities.

The Piedmont classes were taught by regular faculty and the Mobile Navyman received English instruction from a Guamanian-American woman professor whose husband was a Navyman.

The special requests are only a small part of the services offered by the Terminal Island Campus, located at the Naval Support Activity section of the old Long Beach Naval Base.

In fact, there are more classes offered there than at any of the other LBCC extension campuses throughout the area.

There are 1,100 students enrolled in various courses at the Terminal Island Campus. They are serviced by 61 full and part-time teachers, counselors, admissions and records personnel and a dean.

"We've offered individual courses at the naval base for about 15 years," said the dean, Keith Roberts.

"But this year is our shakedown cruise for the full Terminal Island Campus program."

The four main programs that the extension campus offers are:

—A training program for Naval Shipyard apprentices that includes basic skills such as English and math and also technical classes such as "Synchro and Servo Mechanisms."

In recent years, about 65 per cent of the apprentices completing the shipyard's four-year training program also earned two-year degrees from LBCC.

—A work experience program for both apprentices and journeyman shipyard workers that offers work-related courses.

—A Prep Learning Center, funded by the Veterans Administration, for active-duty servicemen. It helps them prepare for school or work when they re-enter civilian life.

"Before we set up the learning center, servicemen had to come to LBCC's Pacific Coast Campus, and that was often difficult for people keeping military hours," Roberts said.

—A Serviceman's Opportunity College that allows active-duty servicemen and their dependents to earn two-year degrees from LBCC after completing 12 of 60 required units of credit at the college. They can get LBCC degrees even if they finish their schooling elsewhere.

"We've tried to remove as many obstacles as we can for Navyman who want schooling," Roberts said. "Instead of sticking to regular semesters, we open 9-week and 6-week classes every month. Servicemen can get into classes within a month after arriving in port."

Closure of the Long Beach Naval Station last year didn't hurt enrollment at the Terminal Island Campus, Roberts said.

"Long Beach is no longer a home port for Naval vessels, but its shipyard facilities were actually increased 25 per cent," Roberts said.

"Now we get Navyman who are here all the time, while their ships are being repaired, instead of being in and out of port so much. This type of Navyman has no family here, so he has less to do in town, and is more likely to take college classes."

"We've never had to close a college class for lack of enrollment," Roberts said.

One reason for that is that college officials try to contact a ship's educational service officers before it arrives at Terminal Island. And LBCC people go aboard to make personal contacts shortly after the ship arrives.

Besides its regular programs, the Terminal Island Campus can now offer external degree programs in industrial technology and business administration in cooperation with Long Beach State University.

Some technical courses, such as refrigeration, are also being given to employees of Terminal Island companies such as Sea Land Corp.

Park Service rejects Yosemite master plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —The National Park Service Friday rejected a controversial draft master plan for Yosemite National Park and launched a new planning process expected to take up to 20 months.

The decision, announced here and in Washington, said that after a review "the draft master plan for Yosemite and accompanying environmental impact statement have been found to be deficient in several respects."

It said the master plan is ambiguous and does not address itself specifically to management objectives for the park, and that the impact statement fails to fully describe the effect the plan could have.

As a result of the rejection a proposal by the new concessionaire, Music Corp. of America, to convert to motel type units 150 cabins at Curry Village has been postponed indefinitely.

MCA executive Jay Stein, informed of the development, had no comment on the rejection but it was regarded as a severe blow to the entertainment conglomerate's plans to upgrade and intensify use of Yosemite as a convention center.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

For such low growing plants, pansies whether large or medium, provide flowers for at least six months before they finally die.

Some earlier planted pansies by now may be looking limp and sickly. These probably are planted too deep and kept constantly damp. Some of them may be saved if gardener scrapes away the soil and exposes the central crown where new runner branches grow.

New plants set out should be carefully checked to make sure the soil doesn't cover the crown when the plants are set out. The problem of planting too deep also affects violas.

FROM pansies let's learn more about bromeliads, plants of the Pine-apple family. While at a dahlia show this summer, Mrs. Barbara Wood commented, why didn't I ever write about bromeliads. She was so enthusiastic about those plants I invited her to contribute her reasons why our readers should become interested in them. She accepted. The following is her fascinating and interesting information about bromeliads:

"Something uniquely different in a house plant is the bromeliad. It's bloom can last for 3-6 months. When not in bloom, the plant still deserves a prominent location.

"Glue, staple, tie, or nail them to a piece of driftwood or set into a rock depression and you have an interesting conversation piece. They will also thrive as a potted plant.

"Bromeliads in their native environment, are tropical plants that grow mostly on trees or rocks. The root systems are primarily an anchor — a means to attach themselves to the host tree or rock. Being epiphytes, they do not take nourishment from the host but feed from the moisture in the air.

"They are highly adaptable to house or garden culture. Given the proper light, humidity, and air circulation they will bloom and reproduce in our Southern California coastal area.

"Supermarkets and florists are beginning to sell blooming plants and the question now arises: "how shall I take care of it?" And a year later, "how can I make my bromeliad bloom again?" (You can't — but read on.)

"AECHEMEAS are probably the most popular of all bromeliads. Aec. fasciata with its wide silver and green banded leaf and tall pink and blue "blossom" is likely to be the one you purchased at the grocery store. It's bloom will last for 5-6 months.

"Place the plant near a window with very good light. Apartment dwellers can use their balconies to grow fasciata if it offers an exposure with some shade. Early morning, late afternoon sun is fine. The east or north patio makes a good home. Arrange them among the ferns.

"Humidity can be provided by your overhead sprinkling of the shade garden. Inside the house do spray them at least once a day. A tray of water with pebbles for the plant to rest upon also helps. The natural cups

Old Farmer's Riddle: What's the worst weather for rats and mice? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: Have you ever heard of a recipe for buttermilk pop? It was a homemade drink, popular long before the advent of bottled soft drinks, and I remember it as being mighty satisfying to the men cutting hay on a hot summer day.

Not sure that this is the same thing, but our folks used to beat up honeylabber (fermented milk), sweeten it, leave in some cinnamon and chill it.

Home Hint: Sometimes new kettles have an iron taste. To remove this, fill it with water and boil a handful of hay in it. This hay-water can also be used to sweeten linens . . . Riddle answer: Who, it's raining cats and dogs.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Rain to start, then partly cloudy; coastal rain and 4-6" snow inland latter part.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Rain most of week; cloudy and cool latter part, but rain again by weekend.

Middle Atlantic Coast: Partly cloudy at first, then occasional rain; cloudy and cool at end of week.

Southeast Coastal-Piedmont: Clear and warm to start, then rain; some sun latter part, then more rain.

Florida: Warm and partly sunny with occasional showers all week.

Upstate & Western N.Y.-Toronto & Montreal: Week begins mild with intermittent rain, then heavy rain and snow in north; end of week partly sunny and cool with some showers.

Greater Ohio Valley: Mild at first, then rainy; end of week cloudy and raw with light rain in west and flurries in east.

Deep South: First part of week mild and partly sunny; end of week light rain and much cooler.

Chicago and Southern Great Lakes: Partly sunny and cool to start, then rain, changing to snow; raw and cloudy latter part.

Northern Great Plains-Great Lakes: Some sun at first, then light rain possibly mixed with snow; end of week snowy and cold.

Central Great Plains: Week begins cloudy with flurries, then heavy snow in north; end of week fair and cool.

Texas-Oklahoma: First part of week rainy along Gulf and in central with flurries in north; end of week rainy and cool in south and central with scattered showers in north.

Rocky Mountain Region: Snowstorm starts week with 4-6" snow; snow ending latter part, then sunny and mild.

Southwest Desert: Mostly clear and cool first part of week; end of week partly cloudy and cool.

Pacific Northwest: Early week rainy in south and heavy snow in mountains; end of week light rain with sunny intervals.

California: Partly cloudy to start with occasional showers in north and mild in south; clearing and mild latter part.

formed by the leaves of most bromeliads are kept filled with water and add to the humidity requirements.

"BROMELIADS under culture like monthly feedings. Fish emulsion (1/2 to 1/4 tsp.) mixed into a quart of water and used in the spray bottle is the easiest way to do it.

"Since bromeliads are from tropical and subtropical regions, temperatures should ideally be about 70 degrees during the day and 50 degrees at night. Your hardy adaptable plant, however, really won't suffer with moderate variations of the ideal. Just keep them away from chilly drafts or direct air flow from air conditioners.

"Pests are not a great problem. If grown indoors it is wise to inspect for mealy bugs and remove them with a Q-tip dipped into rubbing alcohol."

Be sure to look up next week's garden column for Mrs. Wood's additional important information about bromeliads.

Leap from building backfires

Woman injured in San Pedro air bag test

Associated Press

A test demonstration of an air bag designed to catch people jumping from burning buildings ended abruptly Friday when a young woman injured her back trying it out.

Shelly Brown, 20, of San Pedro, was in good condition in San Pedro Peninsula Hospital after being taken from the back-alley test site in an ambulance. "This doesn't change the idea," said Don Gordon, 42, of Anaheim. "She might have had the choice of burning or hitting the cement."

Gordon and Dar Robinson, 27, a movie stuntman from Arleta, developed the air bag as an alternative to the eight-man nets used by firemen. Their company, Target Safety Systems of Orange, hopes to sell the $6,500 units to fire companies and high-rise buildings without sprinkler systems.

Earlier there had been almost a carnival air to the proceedings, as television cameramen and announcers took turns leaping off a two-story balcony while mugging for their cameras. Miss Brown was among several bystanders who got into the free-wheeling spirit of the test. But Miss Brown's jump brought that to an end.

The slight blonde lay moaning at the edge of the orange and red air bag as ambulance attendants pushed through newsmen to reach her.

"I landed in the bag," she said, "but I guess I twisted something when I hit. I felt this click in my lower back."

Robinson, who has jumped into an air bag from 12 stories for the world's record, finished his test leaps with a double somersault. Gordon, who holds patents on air bags used for high jumpers and pole vaulters, was equally proficient.

The tough plastic air bag looks like two stacked donuts with filled centers. It is continuously inflated by two electric fans and has a yellow and red bulls-eye in the middle of its 30-foot width. Earlier jumpers collapsed softly into the center but struggled to get out, a process which raised questions in the mind of an observing fireman.

"I'm not against the air bag, but I'm not for it either," said Asst. Fire Chief W.R. Nelson, 49, of Westminster.

Judge OKs county suit

Our L.A. Bureau

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harry Hupp Friday ruled Los Angeles County has the right to sue the state over application of the controversial smog device law for 1960-70 model cars.

Judge Hupp set Dec. 23 for the next step in the suit being brought by the county and Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

AGING CONFAB

we do ask them to come back. We do not have enough help to handle all the cases."

In response to one senior citizen's suggestions that early retirees be utilized to help give information regarding SSI eligibility and applications to interested seniors and help with office problems, Roger Duba of the Social Security Administration Regional Office in San Francisco said "it would be difficult due to the government's policies on the confidentiality of records."

Ralph Abascal, a lawyer with the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation, said, "There really is too much criticism of local offices and people who run them, when, in fact, the problem goes back a lot farther. It goes back to 1972 when, in the midst of making decisions about how to administer the SSI program—how to transfer it to Social Security—Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Casper Weinberger decided to reduce from 19,000 to 12,000 the numbers of Social Security employees needed to administer all Social Security programs, including this one."

"No matter where you look, not just in California, there is not enough staff."

Another major problem, according to Odessa Wilson of the Committee for the Rights of Disabled, is handling of emergency loans for those people who do not receive monthly SSI checks.

"When a person doesn't get his check—and that is often," she said, "He must first stand in line for hours at Social Security. They will give him a slip which he then must take to DPSS (county Department of Social Services), which usually is nowhere near the Social Security office. Another line to stand in before he can get $200. Ten days later, he gets a dun notice from the county, saying he must repay the loan. The problem is that for some old people, six months will go by before their regular SSI checks begin to arrive again. They can't possibly repay the county loan and the threatening letters frighten them."

Herb Nailbow, director of the Long Beach Office on Aging, insisted "to understand SSI is to understand old people. This program, as it is intended, is good. It means to remove the stigma of welfare which for so long prevented many old people from asking for aid."

"But now," he said, "we are making it just like welfare. We are not treating these old people with dignity. We are fighting red tape problems, lack of staff, lack of space, we are pushing them around. We are defeating the whole purpose and intent of the SSI program."

Monday: ???

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Finds you showing your better side to the world while striving for inner growth and perfection. What seems great to others is disorganized from your viewpoint.

Aries (March 21-April 19): You revise Sunday plans because local conditions change and you must consider older people and their worries. Don't let anything lead you to slight those you love.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Make the best of slow-going. Participate as usual in community customs, but don't linger. Serious study now brings satisfaction later.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You've done what you could about problems within reach; now forgive yourself for not managing the impossible. Seek the company of lighthearted people.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Although your pet schemes are sidetracked for the moment, don't take today's delays and minor conflicts personally. Avoid haste in dealing with people.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Take a break from business. If you normally work on Sunday, get someone to replace you. Concentrate on self-improvement programs and favorite pastimes. Go out socially tonight.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Resolve not to get involved in complex financial moves. Your friends didn't consult you before getting into their difficulties so don't feel you have to pull them out.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home and family concerns are indicated; stay in and deal with them. Take extra time for rest. Distant news is incomplete, puzzling.

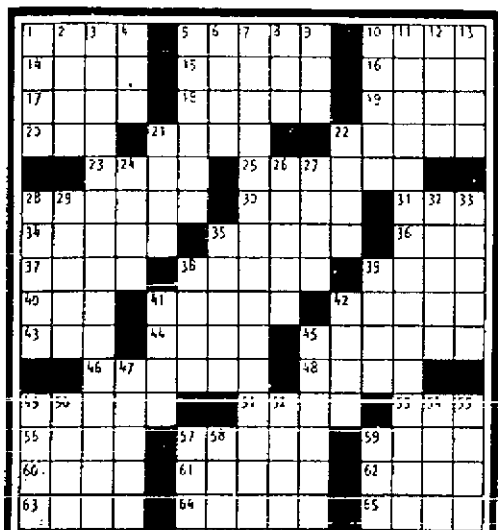

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Reconsider or postpone long journeys and major projects since conditions today and tomorrow will change. Take it easy, and associate with more cheerful people.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money continues to be a topic of discussion, and even conflict. Keep impulse spending to a minimum; you'll have a better buy soon. Use candor tactfully.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your plans are dependent on circumstances surrounding those you love. Pray for guidance. Catch up on minor repairs and maintenance of your home.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The satisfaction you derive from pursuing personal projects is more important than the excitement of being in on big news. Be prepared for an upcoming project.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Make your appearance in Sunday neighborhood activities. Resist temptation to meddle in others' affairs. Accept delays in both social and romantic engagements.

Mother's milk fed to sextuplet

SAN JOSE (AP) — Jolene Rene, the eldest of the three surviving Lange sextuplets, had her first feeding of mother's milk Friday as doctors said her condition continued to improve.

But her two infant brothers, Brian and Wesley, remained in critical condition, dependent on respirators.

Nurses at Valley Medical Center said Jolene Rene, given the best chance of surviving, was sipping through a tube minute quantities of mother's milk from the hospital's frozen milk bank.

All three babies are getting several visits a day from their mother, 28-year-old Charlotte Lange, who gave birth to the three-month premature sextuplets Sunday morning. One of the infants died that day, and two died Tuesday.

By LES RODNEY

A nice Christmas touch by Mount Calvary Lutheran Church of Cypress—next Saturday, the 21st, the church children, after rehearsing their program for Sunday, will make a trip to a local convalescent hospital with gifts for the indigent. Says the pastor, Rev. Vlad P. Benko: "This aids the youngsters to learn that in the Christian tradition Christmas is a time of giving as well as receiving."

BILLY GRAHAM and Alexander Solzhenitsyn met privately for more than an hour in Stockholm. The exiled Soviet writer was in Stockholm to accept his Nobel Prize for Literature (an occasion boorishly boycotted by the immature Soviets and their sheep-like satellites). The American evangelist was there in connection with a trip through various European capitals visiting with religious leaders.

Said Graham after the meeting: "Solzhenitsyn has the kind of intellect and moral courage that the world so desperately needs today. His grasp of both history and theology is amazing."

UNITED METHODISTS meeting in Jerusalem last month during a "Great Day of Challenge" were told by Dr. Emilio Castro, director of the World Council of Churches Commission on World Mission and Evangelism, that they must repudiate as demonic any attempt to drive a wedge between evangelism and social action.

"There is no biblical dichotomy between the spoken word and the word made visible in the lives of God's people," he said. Dr. Castro, a Methodist, is a Uruguayan. He told his 2,300 fellow-Methodists "Men will look as they listen, and what they see must be at one with what they hear. The Christian community must chatter, discuss and proclaim the gospel. It must express the gospel in its life as the new society, in its sacrificial service to others as a genuine expression of God's love, in its prophetic exposing of all demonic forces that deny Lordship of Christ and keep men less than fully human."

AND NOW a wee positive note in the bitter rift within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. Five representatives of the Synod Board of Directors and five representatives of the board of ELIM (Evangelical Lutherans in Mission, the so-called moderates in the dispute) met for a full day's session in St. Louis last week. When it was over they agreed on the following statement:

"Participants agreed that the discussions were frank, conducted in a spirit of Christian openness, and demonstrated an honest concern on the part of all for genuine reconciliation. The group will meet again Jan. 8."

Well, that sounds a little better.

Advent musical treats offered by churches

On the third Sunday of Advent, with 10 days to go before Christmas, area churches present a variety of musical treats. Here are programs reported to us:

The Lakewood Choristers, 30 singers and instrumentalists directed by Johnnie Hallett, conductor, pianist and composer of more than 500 sacred music numbers, will present The Most Wonderful Time of the Year at both 6 and 8 p.m. in First Baptist of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road, Long Beach. Also appearing in the concert will be the New Creation Singers, the Chapel Bell Choir and the new Chorister Orchestra. Special lighting effects, costumes and decorations will enhance the production.

At University Lutheran, 1429 Clark Ave., a dramatic musical, Come With Me to Bethlehem will be presented at 5 p.m. The story of Christ's birth will be portrayed by adults and children, with choirs, soloists and instrumentalists, costumes and lights. Refreshments will follow.

The Christmas cantata So Great a Gift by Daniel Thomas, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in First United Methodist of Lakewood, 4300 Bellflower Blvd. Choir director Roland Sandberg is known for his bands and orchestras at Wilson High, and also directs the Long Beach City College Adult Band. The pastor, Dr. Donald R. O'Connor, will be the narrator.

The annual Christmas program of Narbonne Avenue Southern Baptist, 24730 Narbonne Ave., Limita, will be presented at 7 p.m., highlighting the Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah. There will be 125 singers. The Youth and Children's Choirs will participate.

The cantata Night of Miracles will be presented at 4 p.m. with orchestra and choir of First United Methodist, Fifth and Pacific.

The New Hope Singers present Celebration, termed a Christmas spectacular, with a 34-piece orchestra, live nativity scene and the "Hour of Power" carolers, at 6 and 8 p.m. in Garden Grove Community Church, 12141 Lewis St.

In Los Angeles, John Barry, who will be remembered as a music director in Long Beach, will direct the Messiah in St. Paul's Cathedral, Wilshire and Figueroa, at 8 p.m. with members of the USC symphony orchestra helping out.

TODAY AT 4:30 p.m., Long Beach Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1001 E. Third St., presents its annual Christmas program Carols by Candlelight with special guests including the Sunshine Brass and Henry Barron, tenor soloist.

Sunday and Monday at 7:30 p.m., Joy Has Come Down will be offered with the church choir, Chamber Singers, Love's Creation and an orchestra at Christ Church of Westminster, 14061 Chestnut St.

On Wednesday, the cantata The Story of Christmas will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in Bethlehem Lutheran, 11082 Wallingford Road, Los Alamitos.

Pastor of new L.B. church His gospel music group proved something to Army

By LES RODNEY
Religion Editor

Someone who loves music and loves the Lord probably enjoys good gospel music.

If, like Rev. Charles Freeman, he also has a generous measure of talent and enthusiasm, he not only enjoys gospel music, but sings it, composes it, and organizes an award-winning group like Voices of Jerusalem.

Freeman, 33, earlier this year became founding pastor of New Jerusalem Baptist Church here in Long Beach. If he's as successful at organizing a church as he is at organizing a musical group, the congregation will outgrow its modest quarters, two renovated store fronts at 1631 W. Burnett St.

an instant hit at the Gospel Night Club in Hollywood, and were invited to churches, high school assemblies, and banquets.

Then they were asked by the USO and Defense Department to tour Vietnam. The next year they were asked back, this time for the Christmas holiday period, and they also traveled to Thailand, Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Guam, the Philippines, and Germany. For four purposes there were five selected men and women, with Freeman doubling as a pianist, and another on the drums.

NOT BOASTFULLY, but factually, the musician-preacher points out that "you only get to go back if your rating is up there." The Voices of Jerusalem were rated A Plus.

He attributes this to musical excellence and "lots of spirit."

They must have had something good. "We were the first gospel group ever sent to Thailand," Freeman relates. "They didn't think gospel would go over. They sent country western, rock, folk and the rest. We got such a great reception, we broke the ice for other gospel groups to go."

It is understandable, perhaps, that those in charge of selecting shows for GIs far from home might think gospel music would bomb.

"But," says Freeman, "the guys get so much of the other stuff, all the rock music they want, fast movies, they can go to strip joints, and so on. Now along we come with our gospel music. They can tell we are dedicated Christians, and they are impressed."

"I got to feel there is a great need for what we brought. So many of the music, and added with a smile: "Music always seems to create a little togetherness."

NATURALLY enough, as a pastor—and as minister of music in a Wilmington church before that—he sees gospel music as a very important part of worship and church life. "It's uplifting," he says.

He thinks a city like Long Beach ought to have a gospel concert hall. "So often it's hard to find the right place," he says. "The Arena is too big, the Auditorium isn't suitable, halls are not always available."

Sometime in the future, he hopes New Jerusalem Baptist Church will build a large new plant, which will include a gospel concert hall designed for that purpose and available to all good gospel music. Starting with 20 members, the church has already doubled, but the building dream is a ways off.

In the meantime, Rev. Charles Freeman and his Voices of Jerusalem are planning a full-scale concert somewhere in Long Beach next February. At least one of the original group, Vera Shipp, is still with the Voices, and another charter member, his sister Mrs. Wanda Freeman Cobb, will come back to Long Beach from her St. Paul, Minn. home for the gala occasion.

50-year members honored Sunday

Atlantic United Methodist Church, at 1535 Atlantic Ave., will celebrate its golden anniversary Sunday, with Rev. Dr. N. Robert Kesler, superintendent of the Long Beach district, speaking at 11 a.m. and 16 charter members being honored. December 14, 1924 marks the date of the first church worship service of the congregation, held in Poly High School.

The members who have remained faithful members through at least 50 changing years are Mrs. Vincent (Lois) Bailey, Mrs. Peter (Edith) Best, Miss Norma Bowen, Mrs. Margaret Brophy, Mrs. Ray (Frances) Hamby, Dr. John A. Harris, Mrs. Charles (Hope) Lewis, Mrs. James (Lois) Lowry, Mrs. Martha Parker, Mrs. Ruth Quibby, Mrs. Wilhelmina Schuck, Miss Catherine Schuck, Mrs. Merle (Madeleine) Tibbets, Mrs. Carl (Helen) Tullberg,

POW/MIA PRAYER MEETING

Relatives and friends of men still missing in action or said to be held prisoner by North Vietnam will gather for a third annual prayer meeting Sunday, 3:30 p.m. in the chapel of Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Among returned POWs joining the service will be Capt. Mark Smith from Fort MacArthur, who will speak following rededication of a Freedom Tree outside the chapel. There will be prayers, hymns and a candlelight service. A roll call of California POW MIAs will be conducted by next of kin. The public is invited to the service.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman-Vincent Peale

Believing can make it happen

It is a powerful law that by changing your mental habits so that you can believe, you can at once start bringing everything into the realm of possibility. This does not mean that merely by believing you will get everything you want. Of course not. But it does definitely mean that once you learn to believe, then the seemingly impossible moves into the area of the possible. Things really start going for you.

Dr. Smiley Blanton, distinguished psychiatrist, explained that the primary effort is to develop the "capacity to believe." Everything hinges on one's learning to have faith, so he said. Some people do not seem able to be believers — either in God, or in themselves, or in their jobs. As a result they never get very far, just go limping along through life. But others have the priceless ability of believing. They are able to have faith in themselves and in their jobs. And so they become the real achievers of this world.

CHURCHILL, ONE of the great characters of history, demonstrated this belief power. During the second World War "floating harbors" were desperately needed. He summoned the best engineers in England and outlined how he wanted them to make these floating harbors. They said it could not be done. He replied that, even so, he wanted floating harbors constructed. The engineers became angry, quarreled with him and told him again it could not be done, that what he asked was impossible. Churchill barked back at them, "Don't quarrel with me; quarrel with your difficulties. Make me those floating harbors. I know you can make them. I must have them. Get busy." And they did make them, and they played an important role in the ultimate victory.

Impossible! Cannot be done! How many times have you said that? Drop the impossibles and think in terms of the possibles — learn to believe — all things will for a fact move into the area of possibility. Everything then shall become different, creatively better.

But how do you learn to believe? Practice believing is the secret; practice-believing until you make yourself a believer. Nobody every learned to master anything except by intensive and persistent practice. So if you want to be a believer, the kind of person who does so-called impossible things, start now to practice being a believer. Simply affirm to yourself, and say it very positively: "I believe!" and then say it again, and still again. Every day many times repeat those two magic words, "I believe, I believe."

Your mind may be so geared to disbelieving that at first it will resist your affirmations and you may give up. Your mind may slyly say: "You are a fool. You do not want to believe at all. Do not let that positive thinking guy persuade you to say foolishly: 'I believe.' Haven't I, your mind, guided you for a long time? I know you better than you know yourself. Do not take stock in such nonsense."

If your mind reacts in this manner it is because it is not at home with a faith attitude — it has been conditioned in fact to disbelieve. But, if you firmly say to your mind: "Look, your mind will accept your will to believe. You can do practically anything with your mind that you have a will to do. Do this and you will no longer be frustrated by negative thoughts. Build positive thinking into your mind and negatives will stop holding you back. You will come to believe in possibles, not impossibles."

There is a terrific line in the Bible: "That which I have greatly feared has come upon me." Certainly it does. What you greatly fear over a long period of time tends to come to you because you have created mental conditions hospitable to failure and disaster. But if that works in the negative sense, so also does it work from the positive point of view. That which you greatly believe shall come upon you too.

THE FAMOUS football coach, Knute Rockne, had four standards for selecting players for his team: (1) I will not have a man with a swelled head for you cannot teach him anything. (2) I will not have a griper, kicker or complainer. (3) I will allow no dissipation, physically or emotionally. (4) I will not have a man with an inferiority complex — he must believe he can accomplish things.

No wonder — Knute Rockne was one of the greatest coaches in American football history. He taught football players the importance of believing, and as a result his teams had outstanding records. When players believed in the outcome, the result which was already planted in their minds was accomplished.

William James, a father of American psychology, said: "Our belief at the beginning of an undertaking is the ONE thing (now get that) ... is the ONE thing that assures the successful outcome."

Nativity pageant to open

Three churches have combined talents and forces to create "Portraits of the Prince of Peace," a live outdoor nativity pageant which will run from Monday to the following Monday, 7:30 to 9 p.m., at Wardlow Road and Chatwin Avenue.

There will be 11 live scenes, with animals, choirs, people in costumes depicting shepherds, wise men, Herod, Joseph, and Mary. In consideration of the energy problem, candlelight and lanterns will be used, giving the pageant a warm glow of realism.

The cooperating Long Beach churches are Saint Luke's Evangelical Lutheran, Christian Reformed, and University Baptist.

Slight drop

Membership in the United Methodist Church in the United States now stands at 10,063,016. The total is a decrease of 129,219 from a year ago. In addition to the full members, there are 1,610,213 preparatory members, usually baptized children.

San Pedro pastor a leader

'Charismatic' issue warily discussed by Lutherans

Two dozen Lutheran theologians cast wary eyes on the current charismatic movement and came away from a four-day meeting in Dubuque, Iowa urging a Lutheran theology.

Participants in the conference at Wartburg Seminary included some Lutherans who consider themselves "charismatics" and one nationally-known Lutheran leader of the charismatic movement.

Looking into church history for some information about the doctrine of the Holy Spirit the theologians reported that they found a "considerable divergence of views about the Holy Spirit in the early history of the church."

Dr. Bernard J. Holm of Wartburg noted that the theologians writing at the time of Martin Luther had a "wide variance of views" in regard to the doctrine of the Holy Spirit.

Rev. Larry Christenson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church in San Pedro, declared that the charismatic movement exists to "help the church see its spiritual power." Mr. Christenson, who reports that he experienced the "baptism of the Holy Spirit" in 1961, said that the movement wants to "recall the church to things which have been neglected."

The A.L.C. pastor admits that the movement has presented some problems for Lutherans. In 1964, the ALC approved a report from its Commission on Evangelism which urged that speaking in tongues be neither promoted nor practiced at meetings of congregations. The issue at the time had become divisive in a number of ALC congregations.

Dr. Howard Tepker a Missouri Synod theologian, said his denomination has "serious concerns" with regard to some emphasis of the charismatic movement. These include the baptism of the Holy Spirit, the strong emphasis on "signs" and the emphasis on "experience."

He also noted that the "spiritual experiences" of charismatics tend to divide congregations. "More study is needed," he concluded.

Dr. Richard A. Jensen, of Wartburg Seminary, reported on the Third International Lutheran Conference on the Holy Spirit, held in Minneapolis and said it raised the question of how pastors shall minister "in an age of neo-Pentecostal parishioners." The ALC clergyman said he noted a tendency towards "anti-rational, anti-intellectual and anti-theological kind of statements and attitudes" at that conference, which drew thousands to its mass meetings.

Both those who are sympathetic to the charismatic movement and those with questions about its validity reported "positive feelings" about the four-day meeting. "A church that is continually being reformed needs a far deeper awareness of the fact that renewal is the work of the Spirit," said Dr. Harold H. Dismanson, professor of religion at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn.

Bethlehem seeks American help to beautify birthplace

Singer Pat Boone and businessman Edward L. Johnson were named this week Los Angeles co-chairmen of a fund-raising campaign to beautify the surroundings of the Church of the Nativity, the birthplace of Jesus, in Bethlehem.

The announcement was made in the office of Mayor Thomas Bradley by Elias M. Freij, mayor of the ancient city. Freij, a Christian, is currently on a nationwide tour to raise money for the project.

The specific goal of the mission, Freij said, is to "transform an ugly, noisy parking lot in front of the shrine into a beautiful plaza with fountains and gardens where Christian pilgrims and tourists can properly feel the spiritual sanctity of the site."

"Bethlehem is a sacred place to Christians, but we often feel neglected by the Christian world," said Freij. "Now we are appealing to men of good will to help us create a dignified setting for our holy treasures. For us, people of a poor city with limited means, these are goals beyond our resources."

Anyone making a donation to the project of at least $5 will receive a Christmas card, signed by Freij, from the ancient city of Bethlehem. Donations should be sent directly to the Bethlehem Foundation Inc. in care of the Exchange National Bank of Chicago, Chicago.

Freij said the city wants to construct a subterranean parking lot that will accommodate the busses and cars that bring up to one half-million visitors to the shrine each year.

The plans include a post office, tourist office rest house and auditorium on the western side of the square facing the old stone church. One of the uses of the auditorium would be to provide a stage for the more than one-dozen choirs that come from America and Europe to sing in Bethlehem each Yuletide.

Wasted food termed sinful

The head of an international relief agency this week called on the nation's restaurants, hotels and major passenger carriers to help feed the world's starving millions.

Dr. W. Stanley Mooneyham of World Mission International feels that restaurants could easily save food and cut waste by limiting the size of food portions they serve.

"Food portions served in most restaurants far exceed the quantity we need," said Mooneyham. "The amount of uneaten food we send back to restaurant kitchens could feed millions of hungry people."

"It is not only wasteful, but sinful," declared the evangelist and humanitarian who champions the cause of those in the "Fourth World."

'1 anna 2 anna here's Bobby...'

BY BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

For those of you who don't watch "The Lawrence Welk Show," let me report that Long Beach's contribution to the long-running musical program is still going strong after more than 13 years.

Yes, Bobby Burgess still appears regularly as a dancer on the show, which airs from 7 to 8 p.m. each Saturday on Channel 11.

The Long Beach native joined the Champagne Music Makers in August 1961 with his dancing partner, Barbara Boylan. Both were 19 and both were students of Long Beach State College.

At that time, the Welk show was on the ABC television network. For the past few years it has been a nationally syndicated series.

Cissy King became Bobby's dancing partner in 1967 when Barbara retired from show business.

BURGESS, who started taking dancing lessons at age 3 and had appeared on TV 40 times as a singer-dancer by the time he was 11, was a Mouseketeer on Walt Disney's "Mickey Mouse Club" TV series for three years, from age 13 to 16.

He attended the Disney school at the studio in Burbank from the 9th through the 11th grades. He went to Poly High in Long Beach his senior year, graduating in 1959.

The TV personality phoned me the other day to report that the "Mickey Mouse Club" shows will be brought back to the tube in January, to be rerun daily on Channel 11 and on stations throughout the nation. Our TeleVues magazine carried a story about that on Dec. 1.

Burgess said that Channel 2's "Follow-Up" program airing from 10:30 to 11 Sunday night will feature interviews and old film clips of him and a couple of other former Mouseketeers.

"It will also show what we're doing now," said Bobby. "They came out to my home in the Hollywood Hills to film me rehearsing a dance number."

Bobby married Kristie Floren, daughter of Welk accordionist Myron Floren, in 1970.

THE TV DANCER said NBC will fly him and a few other ex-Mouseketeers to New York to be interviewed Jan. 20 on Tom Snyder's "Tomorrow" show. That's the day the old TV series is scheduled to go on the air again.

This evening's Welk show will spotlight Walt Disney's musical hits, and Burgess and some of the others will don Mickey Mouse ears for a dance number.

Burgess said he won't get any money from the "Mickey Mouse Club" reruns. He reportedly earned $225 a week while doing them.

Bobby's parents still live in Long Beach.

THREE PRO football games are on television today — Cincinnati vs. Pittsburgh at 10 a.m. on Channel 4, Minnesota vs. Kansas City at 12:30 p.m. on Channel 2 and Dallas vs. Oakland at 6 p.m. on Channel 7.

Channel 28 offers pro tennis action taped at the $100,000 Grand Prix Masters Tournament at Melbourne, Australia, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today.

"GLENN MILLER WEEK" is being observed on Long Beach radio station KLOM (88.1 FM). Fred Woodruff, American representative of the International Glenn Miller Society, joins Mark Sudock for a four-hour edition of "The Top of the Mark" at 7 tonight, following a half-hour program with a Miller band alumnus, Rolly Bundock. The station will present four more hours of Miller music and talk and music in the Miller tradition starting at 7 p.m. Sunday.

TODAY'S OPERA from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, to be broadcast at 11 a.m. on KFAC (1330) and KFAC-AM (92.3), will be Benjamin Britten's "Death in Venice." This is the second in a new series of 20 weeks of Metropolitan Opera broadcasts.

THE CAROL BURNETT show featuring Alan Alda as a guest, originally set for tonight, will air next Saturday night at 10 on Channel 2. Her guests tonight are Carl Reiner and Ken Berry.

Visions of Irish still dance in their heads Bucks can wait, say Trojans

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

John McKay is not fighting the feeling of euphoria that exists among USC players as a result of a 55-24 victory over Notre Dame in the final regular-season football game of the season.

"You can't expect them to say it's over and let's go on to another game," said McKay Friday as the Trojans engaged in Rose Bowl Press and Picture Day.

"My Lord, all of their friends are still talking about it and all the alums are reminding them of it," added the Trojan coach. "After all, it was something you're not likely to see again in a lifetime."

But McKay does foresee a time when the Trojans will begin concentrating on a major target, their Jan. 1 game with Ohio State in the Rose Bowl.

"After Santa Claus has come and gone, we'll start getting ready to play a team," he said. "That's when the strategy commences. It's a point at which they'll begin zeroing in on a single game—the Rose Bowl."

Although Ohio State is an early seven-point betting favorite, McKay has confidence the Trojans will perform well.

"In the last four games, this team has played as well as any we've had at USC," he said.

Whether this is good enough to beat Ohio State is another question.

"I've looked at the films and Ohio State is very good," he said. "They are better offensively than last year, but maybe not as awe-inspiring on defense."

"But they have had a lot of injuries among their defensive personnel, and I'm sure they will be completely healthy for the Rose Bowl game."

The Trojans, he said, are better defensively than the team which lost to the Buckeyes, 42-17, last Jan. 1.

"I'll say that until someone proves me wrong," he said.

He said the 1974 Rose Bowl game was "about a seven-point game."

"If we had caught the ball, we would have been in great shape early," he said. "When we got behind, we had to take some chances defensively. They were not the soundest moves you can make, but we were trying to force fumbles."

"The way I look at this game, I don't think we are going to keep Ohio State from scoring three or four times. I know Michigan kept the Buckeyes out of the end zone, but that was a very cold, bitter day in Ohio."

The Trojans will use only 14 of the 16 practice

Two John McKays better than one days they are permitted, he said.

"I know some people again will say McKay is taking the Rose Bowl lightly," he said. "But that's not it at all. I believe the Rose Bowl should be a reward for something achieved."

"We're not going to make it punishment for doing well."

The Trojans begin workouts today, and there is a chance they might win a national championship if they can defeat Ohio State, and Notre Dame defeats Alabama in the Orange Bowl.

"It all depends now on Notre Dame," he said. "I know the last time they got whacked here, they were crushed by Nebraska, 40-7, in the Orange Bowl."

McKay didn't deny that the humiliation of last year's Rose Bowl game might have an effect on his present team.

"It depends on how long the memories of the players are," he said. "I know they remembered Notre Dame."

So did the coach.

Streakless L.B. State faces Baylor

By JIM MCCORMACK
Staff Writer

The scouting report on members of the Baylor University basketball team has been reduced to essentials.

"They're big, and they're good," Dwight Jones says of the athletes who will challenge his Long Beach State club tonight at 8 in the Long Beach Arena.

"They start a front line that is 6-8, 6-9 1/2 and 6-5," adds Jones.

Generally, the 49ers (2-2) will do the same thing they have done in four previous outings, relying on a power game offense and a pressure man-to-man on defense.

JONES PLANS to start the same lineup that beat Montana, 78-56, last Saturday in the consolation game of the Sun Devil Cage Classic.

"We'll go with the same starters—Dale Dillon, Bob Gross, Carlos Mina, Kyle Jackson and Floyd Heaton," says Jones. "Our only change will be if Dillon can't play. Richard Johnson would probably start in that case."

Dillon, a 6-4 sophomore guard from Poly High, suffered a dislocated thumb early in the Montana game. Dillon snapped the thumb, on his right hand, into place and went on to play a career-high 32 minutes against the Grizzlies.

Baylor is expected to start a front line of 6-8 Tom Hutchison at center and 6-9 1/2 Tony Rufus and 6-5 James Weaver at forwards. That trio will be joined by 6-3 Billy Carlisle and 6-2 Tom Corley, the Bears' only returning starter, at guards.

Hutchison is the team's leading scorer (21 points per game) and rebounder (13).

Tonight's encounter will be Long Beach's first visit to the arena since USC snapped the 49ers' 77-game court win streak with a 94-84 overtime victory 11 days ago.

Jones doesn't think his team is concerned about beginning a new streak.

"I don't believe they're thinking of it in those terms," says Jones.

"Even if we were to win our 12 remaining home games, it would be two or three more years before a streak was big enough to become significant."

"I DO THINK, however, that the kids realize that they have to play each game as though the streak still existed. They can't pick and choose games, they've got to be ready to play every one."

Tonight's contest will be broadcast by KFOX (1280). Radio station KNAC-FM (105.5) will carry pregame, halftime and postgame reports.

The 49er junior varsity will play Loyola's JV in a 5:45 preliminary encounter.

Friday night Baylor was upset by L.A. State, 86-60.

What a turnaround!

That's the only way to describe the way Long Beach City College advanced into the championship finals of the Santa Barbara Tournament with a convincing 87-76 victory over Santa Monica Friday night.

The Vikings tangle with Cypress, a 65-59 victor over Pierce, for the title at 8:30 tonight.

"I can't say enough about the way we played tonight," said elated coach Bill Fraser. "I'm ecstatic. We played like we are supposed to—with intensity and desire."

The Vikings, who received a tongue-lashing from their coach after Thursday's effort, trailed until the final seven minutes.

With an awesome show of defensive rebounding and steady shooting, Long Beach made it a runaway with a 19-4 blitz.

Until that time Long Beach performed as it had the past three games—outrebounded and cold from the field. The Vikings trailed by as many as 12 points with barely two minutes gone in the second half.

Santa Monica took a 10-2 lead at the outset of the 76th meeting between the schools. With outside shooting from guards Reggie Newson, Falstaff Hawkins and Floyd Hooper, the Corsairs never allowed the Vikings closer than six in the first half.

Long Beach, which has not led an opponent in rebounding all season, managed 12 to Santa Monica's 19 the first 20 minutes. Suddenly the roof fell in on the Corsairs.

Led by Steve Sinecock, Jeff McHugh and reserve guard Brian Lenzen, Long Beach outrebounded the Corsairs, 13-9.

"We were giving them shooting practice in the first half," recounted Fraser. "We let them shoot and they hit. But we adjusted in the second half and shut them off underneath and then worked on their outside shooting. That's when we took over in rebounding."

The tactic worked. Santa Monica's outside shooting cooled and, when Newson committed his fifth foul with 2:36 remaining and Long Beach on top 78-72, it was all over.

Guy King put the Vikings on top for good, hitting both ends of a one-and-one with five minutes to play. Seconds later he put the Vikings up by four on two more free throws.

SANTA MONICA (76): Hooper 15, Moore 2, Newson 12, Fugle 8, Hawkins 10, Balthazar 10, Shumway 1, Johnson 12. LONG BEACH (87): Decker 9, Margus 25, Radford 8, Lenzen 4, King 11, McHugh 11, Sinecock 20. Halftime score: Santa Monica 43, LBCC 36.

Rebounds: Newson 10, Johnson 11. Total rebounds: Santa Monica 21, LBCC 25.

Championship bracket: Cypress 66, Pierce 59.

Consolation bracket: Hancock 77, Breaux 69, Santa Barbara 57, San Francisco 63.

Lakers break fast, roll over Seattle

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

It could be that the Lakers are finally ready to make their move in the Pacific Division.

Displaying their best fast-break of the season, the Lakers rolled to a 109-93 victory over the Seattle Sonics before 10,296 fans at the Forum Friday night.

The return to duty of guard Gail Goodrich, and the continued effective play of Lucius Allen, plus the rebounding dominance of center Elmore Smith, made this one of the Lakers' easiest wins of the season.

It marked the first time in 21 games that they have won two in a row and it lifted them out of the Pacific Division basement and to within one-half game of second-place Seattle.

The Sonics had beaten the Lakers twice in the Northwest, but even though big Leonard Gray was able to start along with Spencer Haywood, Seattle was unable to muscle the Lakers.

Most of the credit goes to Smith, who is playing with great intensity. He pulled down 23 rebounds, a season high, and scored 19 points.

Rebounding, according to coach Bill Sharman, is the key to the Lakers' future, and they were able to dominate the backboards even though forward Happy Hairston was sidelined with a knee injury. Hairston is the club's top boardman.

With Smith igniting the fast break with his outlet passes, Goodrich and Allen penetrated the scattered Seattle defense. Allen had 30 points and 9 assists, Goodrich 26 points and 10 assists.

The defense of Corky Calhoun on Haywood also was a factor, although Haywood was below par physically because of muscle spasms in his back. He scored 12 points in the first half, but played only a few minutes after intermission.

Coach Bill Russell of Seattle wasn't overly impressed with the Lakers.

"They are struggling just like us," he said. "We played so lethargically tonight that we made them look good."

Russell talked about intensity, just as Sharman did.

"There isn't much difference between any of the teams in this division," said Russell. "Golden State is leading because it's playing hard every night and Rick Barry is a great leader."

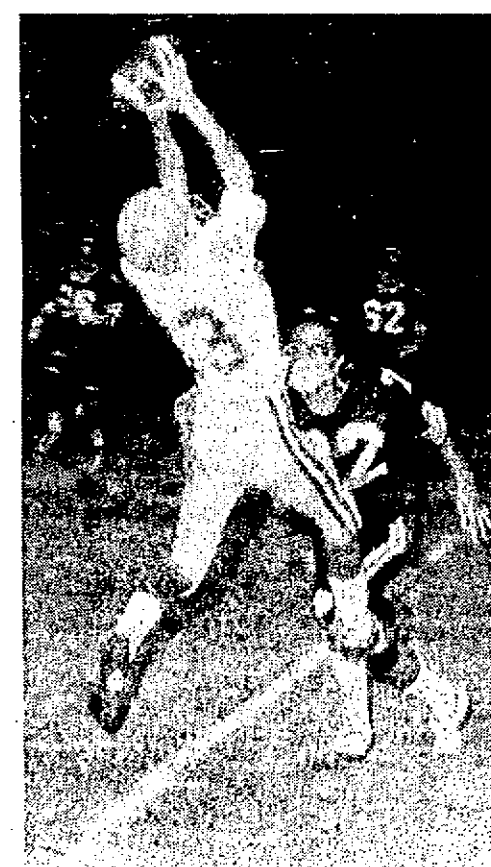

Sharman has found no fault with the Lakers' intensity of late, only inconsistency on the backboards.

"If we rebound well, we run well," said Sharman. "When we don't rebound, we are in trouble. In this regard, Smith is the key. Tonight he was great."

With Hairston out, the Lakers appeared to be in trouble on the boards. But Connie Hawkins pulled down 13 and Stu Lantz, playing the No. 3 forward, added six.

When Hairston returns, Sharman will have a major decision on whether to keep Lantz on the bench or insert him as the No. 3 guard. Pat Riley fills that spot now and he contributed 14 points and his usual solid defense Friday.

The Lakers broke the game open in the third period, building a 76-64 lead as Smith scored eight

St. John Bosco rides a Ford into finals, 35-7

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

A month after nearly every other Southern California high school has stored away its football gear for the winter, St. John Bosco showed a near-capacity crowd at Cerritos College Friday night why it has earned the right to play yet one more game.

The Braves turned loose tailback Fred Ford for three touchdowns and 150 yards rushing, then received a KO clinching 85-yard TD jaunt from fullback Wayne Thompson to overwhelm visiting Bishop Amat, 35-7, in a CIF 4-A semi-final contest.

The victory places the small Bellflower all-boys school of 750 in the finals next Friday night at the Coliseum against South Hills of Covina.

Ford, scoring on runs of 15, 3 and 15 yards, accounted for the first three downs and a 21-0 lead with the game barely four minutes into the second quarter.

At that juncture Bishop Amat had only one first

Ford was spectacular the first 24 minutes, breaking tackles and running for 115 yards on only 11 carries before intermission.

The Lancers, however, trailed only 21-7 at halftime, after a poor punt and holding penalty deep in SJB territory gave Amat first-and-goal at the

But what hopes Bishop Amat might have held were quickly erased in the third quarter when St. John Bosco scored two more times.

The Braves' defense, sacking McKay and fellow quarterback Tim Salter six times, were led by linebacker Dan Buckley and tackle Mark Cusator.

FIRST UCLA LOSS —A SCOREBOARD

The two-ton, $20,000 scoreboard at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion crashed to the arena floor Friday afternoon, only five minutes before the basketball team was scheduled to practice.

There were no injuries from the mishap, which a school spokesman said occurred as workmen were in the rafters fixing lights, slightly moving the four-sided electronic scoreboard that is suspended by cables.

"Apparently the main cable parted in some way," the spokesman said. "The scoreboard is $20,000 worth of junk. We'll have to replace a few floor boards and put up temporary scoreboards."

Due to final exams, the nationally second-ranked Bruins are off until next Friday, when they host Memphis State.

"We're lucky it didn't happen during a basketball game," said the spokesman noting the date—Friday the 13th.

Jordan wins key points, 58-56

By RICK ARTHUR
Staff Writer

Don't cross paths with Panthers on Friday the 13th.

That's the heartbreaking lesson Lakewood High's basketball team learned Friday night as the Panther squad from Jordan clawed past the host Lancers in overtime, 58-56.

The victory wasn't easy and wasn't an artistic masterpiece, but it earned Jordan a third successive championship in Lakewood Tournament competition.

Before 1,200 fans in the Lancer gym—including four Lakewood sheriffs deputies, whose protective services weren't required to control the less than well behaved crowd—the slow starting Panthers trailed by five points after one quarter (19-14), led by four at half (31-27), fell behind by as much as six in the third quarter, then dramatically rallied for a 54-54 regulation tie.

Two free throws by James Hardy—one with 53 seconds to go in the extra three-minute period and another with three seconds remaining—decided the outcome.

It was fitting that Hardy was the hero for the winners. The 6-10 senior center, in his third year of varsity action, has developed, matured and acquired enough discipline to begin to realize his potential.

But deserving of no less praise was 6-3 Mickey Chislock of Lakewood, who was assigned by coach Willard Foerster the unenviable task of guarding Hardy.

Chislock, who joined teammate Kevin Weaver and Jordan's Hardy, John Dean and Jay Lorenzen on the all-tournament team, kept Hardy away from the basket as much as humanly possible—no points in the first quarter, 15 in the second and none in the third.

But Hardy exploded when his team desperately needed his point production, hitting six field goals and two free throws—nearly all of the Panthers' points—in the fourth quarter, then added another basket and his pair from the line in the extra session to key the triumph.

In the final minutes of regulation play, the well-balanced, disciplined Lancers led 50-44 with 5:13 to go after Mike Spainhower converted two foul shots.

A three-point play by Hardy made the score 50-47, but Spainhower took a Chislock pass and scored from underneath for a 52-47 lead.

Another three-point play by Hardy (52-50), two free throws by Lakewood's Scott Ziemer (54-50) and a Hardy layup (54-52) set the stage for the waning dramatics.

Jordan forced a jump ball at 1:43, naturally controlled by Hardy, who scored 10 seconds later for the deadlock at 54.

The Lancers lost a chance for victory when a pass went out of bounds with 11 seconds remaining.

Fred Powers gave Lakewood a 56-54 lead with two line tosses 30 seconds into overtime, but the rest was all Hardy—a basket to tie at 55 and the decisive free throws 50 seconds apart.

The emotional contest was marred by two near-altercations, one between Foerster and an unruly Jordan fan, but referee Gilbert Nieto took control each time and cooled tempers.

Hardy finished with 33 points and 10 rebounds. Spainhower had 17 points and Chislock 13 for the defeated Lancers.

Earlier, Paramount out-ran Chino, 81-46, for the consolation title and St. Anthony fell to Rolling Hills, 78-64, for third place.

ALL-TOURNAMENT TEAM: Allen (Rolling Hills), Terrence (Chino), Andy (St. Anthony), Mickey (Chislock), John (Jordan), James (Hardy), Karl (Korver), Terry (Lakewood), Tim (South Hills), Kevin (Weaver) (Lakewood).

Neff wins, 37-0, to gain finals

By JIM TORTOLANO

Neff quarterback Bill Silvey outgained the entire Antelope Valley team as the Trojans routed the Antelopes 37-0 in a 2-A CIF semifinal playoffs Friday night at La Mirada Stadium.

The Trojans will face Burroughs, a 48-41 victory ver Royal Oak, in the championship final next week.

Silvey rushed for 140 yards on 19 carries, including a 52-yard TD sprint. He passed for 87 yards for 227 yards total offense—four more than the entire Antelope Valley team.

Running backs Rick Alkire and Perry Coman rushed for 80 and 64 yards and the alert Neff secondary picked off three passes to boost their season total to 38.

Neff used an interception to set up its first score. Four plays after Mike Lang picked off an Antelope pass, Jock Conteras bootled a 34-yard field goal to give Neff a 3-0 lead at the 9:18 mark of the first period.

The Trojans accelerated their lead to 10 with 11:58 remaining in the first half as Alkire capped a 15-play, 59-yard drive with a one-yard plunge.

Antelope Valley threw a scare into Neff just before the intermission. D.J. Wallace caught a 58-yard pass from Bob Lowry, but was wrestled down by two Neff defenders at the Trojan 15 as the gun sounded.

The roof fell in on Antelope Valley in the third period as the Trojans struck with three touchdowns. Silvey ran for a 52-yard score, Coman ended a 71-yard drive with a 10-yard scoring run and Ed Burns caught a 20-yard Silvey pass for a td. The latter score was set up by a Mark Lara interception.

In the fourth quarter, Neff drove 49 yards in seven plays after the recovery of an Antelope Valley fumble. Coman took a pitchout fro Silvey for six yards and a touchdown at the 9:03 mark of the fourth quarter to make the final score 37-0.

Wilson captures tourney crown; Poly in finals

Despite a slow start, trailing 15-1 at one point in the first quarter, Wilson came alive in the second half to win the Huntington Beach Tournament with a 73-43 win over Newport Friday night.

The Bruins, who shot 57 per cent in the game, was 0-8 from the floor with in the first six minutes and got its points on two free throws.

The Bruins, led by Neil Arnold, voted most valuable player of the tournament, closed the first quarter gap to 17-11 and took a halftime lead of 30-27.

Dave Senyour, 6-9 center for Newport, got in early foul trouble collecting his third with 5:53 remaining in the second quarter.

Wilson shot 77 percent from the floor in the second half, outscoring Newport 17-4 in the third quarter and 28-13 in the final period.

Arnold, who averaged 23 points in the tournament, led the Bruins with 21 while Rich Rivera added 14 and Joe Stinson chipped in another 11.

Leif Hertzog's outside shooting paced Poly High to a come-from-behind, 76-63 win over Beverly Hills in the semi-finals of the Beverly Hills Tournament.

The victory gave the Jackrabbits a berth in tonight's championship game (8:30) with Inglewood, which defeated Camarillo, 70-57, in the other semi-final game.

Milhan faces Buena today at 2 in the fifth-place game.

Poly, in winning its seventh game without a loss, trailed, 36-34, before pulling away in the second half behind Hertzog's shooting. The senior guard finished with 19 points for the game.

Beverly Hills overcame its height disadvantage in the first half with a tough zone defense that kept it in the lead.

But the losers got into foul trouble and Poly capitalized, cashing in on 22 of 28 free throw attempts for the game.

Junior center Mike Wiley paced the winners in scoring with 22 points, while guard Steve Craig led Beverly Hills with 17.

Reggie Theus led Inglewood in its victory, scoring 24 points and intimidating Camarillo under the basket.

Lynwood's John Brown sank the first of two free throw attempts with seven seconds remaining, securing a 64-62 victory over Cerritos in the Cerritos Tournament.

Darrell Allums led the winners with 22 points, while the Dons were paced in scoring by Darrell Hall, with 20.

Sierra breezed past St. John Bosco (61), 37-20, in the consolation game.

Pride only incentive this week

Compiled from I, P-T Dispatches
Except for the St. Louis Cardinals and Washington Redskins, this is "pride week" in the National Football League.

The Cards and 'Skins are vying for the one remaining division: championship, the National Conference East, with the loser of the duel settling for the NFC's wild-card playoff berth.

"But for the rest of the league, nothing is riding on the 14th week of action except perhaps a winning or break-even season, maybe a slightly better position in the final standings, possibly a push toward next year's salary negotiations...and a lot of pride.

ST. LOUIS AND Washington are tied atop the NFC East, each at 9-4. A few weeks ago, the Cardinals appeared to have a lock on the title, leading the Redskins by three games and, as recently as three weeks ago, needing just one more victory to wrap it up.

But the Cards, who blew out to a 7-0 record in the first half of the season, have come upon hard times, losing their last two games and four of their last six. Conversely, the Redskins have won five of their last six to turn a runaway into a dogfight.

Now it comes down to Sunday's two major games, the Cards vs. the New York Giants in St. Louis and the Redskins vs. Chicago in Washington.

If the Cardinals win—they're seven-point favorites—they'll take the title no matter what Washington does since they beat the 'Skins in both meetings this year.

BUT IF ST. LOUIS ties or loses and the Redskins whip Chicago—they're 10-point favorites—it'll be Washington that takes the title.

INSIDE THE NFL

Whichever team wins the NFC East will open the playoffs Saturday, Dec. 21 in Minnesota against the Vikings, champs of the Central Division. The wild-card team will play the Rams, NFC West winners, in the L.A. Coliseum Sunday, Dec. 22.

The American Conference playoff setup was decided last weekend when Miami took the Eastern title and the Pittsburgh Steelers won the Central Division. The Dolphins, gunning for an unprecedented third successive Super Bowl title, play the AFC West-winning Raiders in Oakland on Dec. 21 and the Buffalo Bills, wild-card winners in the conference, are at Pittsburgh the following day.

In two afternoon games today, Cincinnati is at Pittsburgh and Minnesota visits Kansas City. Tonight, Dallas plays at Oakland.

DON'T EVEN HINT to the Steelers' Mean Joe Greene that today's game with Cincinnati is just another game.

"It's an insult to me," said Greene. "If you have a job to do, you take pride in it. It shows a lack of respect to hear those things and I take it personally. Do the fans think we're going out there and not care if we win?"

"That's the trouble with our whole society today. People think if their money isn't on the line, that people are going to lay down on the job. Heck, today you can't get a lot of people to do their job even if you pay them."

Oakland may be playing Dallas but Raider minds will be on Miami.

"Sure, we're looking ahead," admitted coach John Madden, "and I'm positive the Dolphins are, too. It's a normal thing. This game doesn't mean a thing, but we still have to play it and we'll do our damndest to make it a good one."

For the first time in nine years the Cowboys are going nowhere and head coach Tom Landry can think about Christmas shopping instead of playoff games.

BRIEFLY: Indicative of the "pride" factor present in some of Sunday's games are contests involving Houston and Denver. The Oilers are favored for only the second time this season—the other when they opened the campaign with win against San Diego. Some Houston fans envisioned third consecutive 1-13 season, but Oilers take 6-7 record into game against team they've never beaten and one which, until this year, had never finished last.

"When I was at Cleveland, if you had a bad game they threatened to trade you to Houston," said center Fred Hoaglin. "Right now I would be real anxious to leave there if I was a Browns' player."

Denver is locked into second place in the AFC West and can wind up best season ever by beating San Diego. Game will also be a showcase for two 1,000-yard running backs. Denver has Otis Armstrong, who has a lock on the league rushing title with his 1,263 yards, 201 ahead of his closest challenger. San Diego's got Don Woods, perhaps the strongest rookie of the year candidate. The Chargers picked him up for the $100 waiver fee from Green Bay when the Packers cut him and he's slashed his way for 1,067 yards and become the club's most valuable player.

Several other teams will be gunning for 500 seasons—the New York Jets, who have won five in a row and are hoping the second-half resurgence can convince veteran quarterback Joe Namath to stick around; the Philadelphia Eagles, who believe they've found their own quarterback sensation in Mike Boryla; and the Green Bay Packers.

Three Rams on UPI NFC squad

NEW YORK (UPI) — Playoff-bound Washington, Minnesota, St. Louis and the Rams account for half the players voted Friday to the 24-man United Press International 1974 National Football Conference All-Star team.

The defensive-minded Redskins led all teams by placing four.

McCutcheon, who appeared on the second team last season, leads all NFC rushers this year with 1,004 yards and is joined at running back by Chuck Foreman of Minnesota.

In addition to McCutcheon, the Rams also placed offensive guard Tom Mack and defensive end Jack Youngblood on the team while the Vikings, besides Foreman, are also represented by offensive tackle Ron Yary and defensive tackle Alan Page.

Colleges kick off bowl season today

Football's frantic bowl season gets under way today when Central Michigan and Delaware match high-powered offenses in the battle for the NCAA college division championship in the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento.

At the same time, Henderson State and Texas A&I tangle for the NAIA crown at Kingsville, Tex.

Those games touch off the busy holiday schedule for the nation's bowl-bound teams. The action continues Monday with Maryland and Tennessee meeting in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis and the annual all-star Blue-Gray game Tuesday at Birmingham, Ala.

The Camellia Bowl should be an offensive showcase with both Central Michigan and Delaware presenting 1,000-yard runners.

Walt Hodges has passed that total for Central Michigan and both Nate Beasley and Vern Roberts are over that figure for Delaware.

Coach Jack Christensen of Stanford directs the Blue against the Gray, coached by Southern Methodist's Dave Smith in Tuesday's game between the North and South.

WFL OWNERS APPROVE REORGANIZATION PLAN

By Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Fighting for its life, the World Football League approved a reorganization plan in a stormy New York meeting Friday, and reportedly called upon any owner who intends to operate in 1975 to post $750,000 before the end of 1974.

One owner who attended the meeting, and asked that his name not be used, said the league had agreed to try to operate in 1975 with eight teams, four less than it began with in 1974. He said the plan approved Friday calls for each owner to post $750,000 by Dec. 31.

It was not clear exactly what the money would be used for, but some of it is designed to pay back player salaries and other debts which the league owes, and the move also is intended to drive out any owner who does not have that much money.

Tom Origer, owner of the Chicago Fire, said, "I think it (WFL) has a less than 50-50 chance of surviving for a second year." Origer did not give specific reasons for his belief, but he has previously said he thought the league's lack of credibility would prevent it from attracting the investors it needs.

The morning meeting at the St. Regis Hotel was stormy, and at one point league president Chris Hemminger walked out. At the conclusion of the meeting the WFL Board of Governors formally approved Hemminger as president and okayed a reorganization plan he wrote.

Franchises given votes at the meeting were Birmingham, Orlando, Southern California, Hawaii, Memphis, Philadelphia and Chicago. That means the Portland, Charlotte and Shreveport franchises did not vote, and could mean their future is jeopardized even if there is a WFL next year.

A $1.5-million bouncing check used as a down payment for the purchase of the World Football League's Florida Blazers was drawn on a month-old local corporation, a lawyer said Friday in Nashville, Tenn.

Sam Wallace, chairman of the board and secretary of TW Ltd, the company upon which the check was drawn, said the down payment check should not have bounced.

"I wasn't there and I can't say for sure, but it was my understanding that the agreement was between these people and the check would not be deposited, or taken any action on until they were told to do so," said Wallace.

"They moved too fast" in depositing the check, he said, referring to the present owners of the Blazers.

Coaches Derby begins: Carlen to S. Carolina; Devine out?

Combined News Services

As the football season winds down, there is beginning to be more action in the front offices than on the field.

Texas Tech head football coach Jim Carlen began Friday's round of musical coaches by announcing his resignation to accept a position as head football coach and assistant athletic director at the University of South Carolina.

Carlen's resignation will be effective Dec. 28, immediately after his Texas Tech Red Raiders play Vanderbilt in the Peach Bowl.

Carlen was expected to assist former South Carolina head coach Paul Dietzel in the direction of athletics, but Dietzel was removed from his post as athletic director by the university's Board of Trustees in another surprise move.

Board chairman T. Eston Marchant said Dietzel, who had served as both athletic director and head football coach for the past nine years, had been offered the newly-created position of vice president for University Relations. Marchant said Dietzel had not yet accepted the position, which would involve working with alumni groups.

Marchant said Harold (Bo) Hagan, currently the administrative assistant to the director of athletics, had been selected as the new athletic director.

Back in Texas, Baylor University coach Grant Teaff, who this season led the Bears to their first Southwest Conference crown in 50 years, announced that he planned to stay at Baylor despite reports that Texas Tech might be interested in hiring him. Teaff had served as an assistant coach at Tech earlier in his career.

Meanwhile, in Wyoming, another coach from Texas — assistant coach Fred Akers of the University of Texas — was signing a five-year contract as head football coach at the University of Wyoming at an annual salary of $35,400.

Akers succeeds Fritz Shurmur, who was fired last month with one year remaining on his five-year pact. Akers served at Texas for nine years, the last four as offensive backfield coach and offensive coordinator.

Also added to the Wyoming staff were former Green Bay Packer tackle Leon Manley, who will serve as offensive line coach, and Leon Fuller, a defensive coordinator at West Texas State who will fill the same position with the Cowboys.

The team's seven-member executive committee plans to meet Monday to discuss the fate of Devine, who has guided the Packers to a 6-7 record and has one year remaining on a five-year contract as coach and general manager.

The Milwaukee Journal reported that Bart Starr, Don Shula, Jack Pardee and Norm Van Brocklin have been mentioned as possible successors if Devine is fired or resigns.

Lukas saddles pair of Alamitos favorites

Trainer D. Wayne Lukas sends out the probable favorites this afternoon in the featured $6,000 Santa Barbara Purse at Los Alamitos as the Horsemen's Quarter Horse Racing Association moves into its second weekend of the current meeting.

Lukas, national leader with 142 quarter horse victories this year, will saddle Five Chics and Gray Dancer for the 400-yard test. Others in the race include Ruby Begonia, Chic Pat Go, Dell's Shadow, Al's Alibi, Go Mingo and Drivin' Man.

Five Chics has won more than $20,000 this year with four triumphs in 11 starts after earning more some $33,000 last year when he dethroned Kaweah Bar for the first time since 1967 as California's champion gelding.

The War Chic gelding, the second fastest qualifier to the $92,700 Vessels

Maturity although he stumbled and had to settle for fifth in the finals, closed out the summer meeting at Los Alamitos with an impressive 549-yard win in 27.34 seconds and then ran third back of Priss Kitten and Don Guerro in track record time in the Josie's Bar on closing night.

Lukas started Five Chics in the $10,000 Pomona Championship, but his charge finished fifth behind Elan Again.

Gray Dancer, a winner of four of 10 races and more than $12,000 this year, finished the summer season on a winning note, defeating Burke's Pistol and Andy Go in 17.76 seconds for 350 yards.

Parrfame stamped herself as a stakes class sprinter Friday afternoon, easily defeating Plunder By and a star-studded field in the Santa Maria Purse.

Under Robert Adair, the daughter of Parr Passum returned $6,600, $3,800 and $3 for the 19.93-second run. Plunder Bay got place money ahead of Go Go McCoy.

Irish staff to work

Chance to regain prestige—Ara

CHICAGO (UPI) — Notre Dame's football coaching staff begins work today to prepare for an Orange Bowl clash with Alabama, and head coach Ara Parseghian said the Irish had "no choice" but to develop high morale and try to recover from the "shell shock" suffered against Southern California.

"The coaching staff will begin looking at films of Alabama today," Parseghian said, "and we'll try to work out a semblance of a game plan before we leave Dec. 23 for Florida."

"I KNOW that Alabama is very similar to what it was a year ago. They still operate out of the Wishbone and they're very much improved on defense. We're going to be facing an undefeated team; a team that's going for the national championship, and a team that we defeated a year ago."

"They will be bent on revenge for that loss and our team has no choice. We have to get ready for this football team and hopefully make amends for our disappointing performance and regain some of the prestige that we lost in the Southern California game."

Parseghian said he could see no combination of circumstances under which the Irish could win the national championship even with a victory over the Crimson Tide.

"We might be able to dictate who will win the national championship, he said.

"ALABAMA is undefeated and if they beat us, I would think they would be the national champion."

"I'm hoping the team will get itself up for this game. We didn't give up in the Southern California game. We were sort of shell-shocked."

The Trojans won't have to worry about a team title today since there is no team scoring, but the young athletes who led them to that NCAA title, Joe Bottom, John Nabor, Jack Tingley, and others, will face stout competition from swimmers representing Long Beach State, UCLA, Brigham Young, Northridge, L.A. State and Claremont-Mudd.

The Relays are divided into two sessions, at 11 a.m. this morning and at 3 p.m. this afternoon. Each session will have four relay and one diving event.

Admission to each meeting is $1.

World special slalom won by W. German lass

Combined News Services

CORINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy—Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany blitzed down the slopes of the Cortina course Friday to win the World Cup special slalom by a full two seconds.

Miss Mittermaier, who along with the rest of the German team withdrew from Thursday's downhill in a dispute concerning slick ski suits, turned in times of 47.34 and 44.39 seconds for an over-all time of 91.73.

France's Fabienne Serrat, posting the fastest second heat time, took second place with an over-all 93.73 seconds. Christa Zechmeister, also of West Germany, came in third in 94.27.

Lindy Cochran of Richmond, Vt., was the best of five American entries, finishing 17th. The top U.S.

skier, Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., missed a gate in the second heat and failed to qualify.

Annamarie Proell of Austria was fourth, extending her lead in the World Cup standings to 23 points.

Susie Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, was 18th in 97.70 and Leslie Smith of Killington, Vt., 24th in 98.94. Kim Mumford of Putney, Vt., was disqualified for missing a gate.

A controversy over racing uniforms that threatened to incite a skier boycott of the World Cup ski tournament apparently has been quieted by an Austrian coach.

Rosi Mittermaier, West Germany, 21.73 seconds; Fabienne Serrat, France, 22.77; Christa Zechmeister, Germany, 24.27; Annamaria Proell, Austria, 24.33; Monika Kaserer, Austria, 24.80; Betty Clifton, Canada, 25.00; Regina Schick, Austria, 25.17; Michelle Jacot, France 25.48; Kathy Krall, Canada 25.84; Brigitte Scholl, Austria 26.05.

Each coast has rich stakes for young set

GAME OF THE WEEK
St. Louis 24, New York Giants 17

St. Louis needs victory to clinch division title. Cardinals also don't want to enter playoffs on losing note.

If St. Louis wins NFL East, it will open at Minnesota. Should Cards lose and Washington wins, then St. Louis would play Rams at Coliseum in playoff opener as the wild card team.

Running back Terry Metcalf is expected to start for St. Louis despite toe injury.

St. Louis defeated Giants in earlier meeting this season, 23-21, at New York. However, New York holds commanding 45-18-1 series edge.

DALLAS 26, OAKLAND 17—Dallas missed playoffs first time since 1961 despite winning eight of last nine starts. This marks first regular season meeting between clubs, 1971 Preseason: Oakland 27-14 at Oakland.

MINN. 21, K.C. 16—Regardless of the situation, Grant plays them to win. 1970 reg. season: Minnesota 21-10 at Minnesota. Series even at 1-1.

PIT. 21, CIN. 17—What shaped up as crucial week meaningless affair. 1971 reg. season: Cincinnati 17-10 at Cincinnati. Series favors Pitt 2-1.

RAMS 20, BUFFALO 16—Jules Hirsch's Midnight—both looking ahead to playoffs, 1970 reg. season: Rams 19-9 at Buffalo. Rams lead series 1-0.

DENVER 20, S.D. 17—Not only play with pride but also superior team. 1971 reg. season: Denver 27-7 at Denver. San Diego leads series 18-10-1.

DIEREN 22, ATLANTA 10—Falcons just anxious to end nightmarish season. 1972 reg. season: Atlanta 10-9 at Milwaukee. Series: Green Bay 2-0.

HOUSTON 20, CLEVELAND 13—Officers bounced back before and will again. 1971 reg. season: Houston 20-9 at Cleveland. Series: Cleveland 3-0.

MIAMI 27, N. ENG. 11—Shula always tries to establish playoff momentum. 1971 reg. season: N. Eng. 34-24 at N. Eng. Series: Miami 10-8.

N.Y. JETS 17, BAL. 13—Playing as well as anyone; going for sixth in row. 1971 reg. season: Baltimore 16-20 at New York. Series: Jets 2-0.

PHILA. 24, DETROIT 10—Lion playoff chances ruled by Rams loss. 1971 reg. season: Phila. 22-21 at Detroit. Series: Detroit 10-5-1.

S.F. 17, NEW Y. 13—Second place in NFC West at stake—altitude game. 1971 reg. season: San Fran. 17-13 at N. Orleans. Series: S.F. 6-3-2.

WASH. 20, CHI. 17—George Allen goes against old employers for second week in row. 1971 reg. season: Chicago 15-15 at Chicago. Series: Chicago 11-8.

Table tennis tourney begins

The Long Beach Open Table Tennis Championships begin the first of two days of competition at the Southern California Table Tennis Club (205 E. Broadway, sixth floor), today at 10 a.m.

Come see the littlest Leica.

The new Leica CL. Only Leitz could have created a compact camera with the precision of a Leica, the new Leica CL.

The CL is the smallest Leica ever made. Yet it is the first compact to offer full-frame 35mm format with rangefinder-coupled interchangeable lenses and through-the-lens metering.

Like all fine Leica cameras, the CL will take a great picture. It can also be a great investment.

Depressed by extended holiday shutdowns and the national coal strike, the index declined sharply for the week ended Nov. 30. After adjustment for seasonal variations and the Thanksgiving Day holiday, auto and truck assemblies decreased substantially as the industry worked for only three days. Production of bituminous coal and steel and rail freight continued to drop as the coal strike continued into the third week. Big losses were also posted in paper, lumber, and electricity truck tonnage. Electricity output rose moderately, aided by ferry runs advanced shortly for the week.

Inventory liquidation will come to an end, sales of new cars will increase and housing starts will rise, Industry Week reported.

Employees lobbyists —

Sieroty's administrative assistant, Lawrence J. Briskin, and Briskin's wife Reberta are also plaintiffs. Sieroty, as a legislator, and Briskin, as a state employee, and Mrs. Briskin, as an immediate family member of a state employee, would all be affected by the financial reporting provisions of the proposition.

It could moreover define as lobbyists hundreds of bank employees who routinely provide information to state officials. Then banks would have to register these employees as lobbyists and file monthly reports on bank transactions of hundreds of public officials and their families.

Otherwise, the banks must withdraw from interaction with any state governmental process to avoid the cumbersome reporting required, the plaintiffs declare, and to avoid legal risks.

"We believe...this might very well be just another step toward complete invasion of privacy by government," they conclude.

They claim they are "being placed in a special class of persons without a
